JUTLAND LESSON

America And Japan Plan Huge Increase In Battleships

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 3.—Speaking on the Navy Estimates in the House of Commons today, Mr. Leopold Amery (Secretary to the Admiralty) stated that the question of the desirability of building capital ships, or of concentrating on submarines and aeroplanes, had been most anxiously and searchingly investigated by the Admiralty and a sub-committee of the Imperial Defence Committee. Nothing had emerged from these deliberations, he said, to change the general and universally accepted conclusion that the capital ship was still the basis of sea-power.

The naval battles of the war had indisputably proved the immense advantage of the larger and more powerful ship. The submarine was very formidable, and had come to stay, but its power lay in concealment, for which it had to sacrifice speed and offensive and defensive power, and its power of concealment had been most seriously impaired, at any rate for a time, by the remarkable progress during the closing months of the war in scientific measures against submarines.

AIRCRAFT VITAL FACTOR

The aeroplane had become an indispensable factor in naval warfare, but it was not yet capable of carrying, or of discharging accurately at moving objects, projectiles more formidable than those against which the modern capital-ship was already protected. Its range was very limited, and, except for inshore warfare, it depended upon the aeroplane-carrier. All the new elements of naval warfare had acquired increased relative importance, and the fighting fleet of the future could no longer be regarded simply in terms of ships of the line.

The Imperial Cabinet, Mr. Amery went on, had considered the whole problem of the naval security of the Empire, and the conclusions to which that consideration led were embodied in a resolution passed at the meeting of the Prime Ministers of the Empire on July 27.

The resolution was as follows: "While recognising the necessity of co-operation between the various portions of the Empire in providing such naval defense as may prove to be essential for security, and while holding that equality with the naval strength of any other Power is the minimum standard for that purpose, this Conference is of opinion that the method and extent of such co-operation are matters for the final determination of the several Parliaments concerned, and any recommendation upon them should be deferred until after the forthcoming conference on disarmament."

LEARN FROM JUTLAND

The Imperial Defense Committee had approved of the policy of laying down four capital-ships, which was solely a policy of replacing scrapped ships. It was the relentless pressure of the Grand Fleet, Mr. Amery declared, which had finally brought down the Central Empires, but that fleet was now largely obsolete, the few hours of fighting off Jutland had revolutionised the ideas of armament and battleship design.

The lessons of that fighting had been open to the world, and other Powers had not been slow to use them. There was being constructed at present a whole battle-fleet, incomparably more powerful than anything afloat at Jutland.

Japan was constructing eight capital ships, one of which was already completed. The others would be completed by 1925, and she had voted money for eight more, to be completed by 1928.

America—not taking into count four battleships of 32,000 tons and equipped with 16-inch guns, which were more powerful than our latest types—would have completed by the end of 1924 no fewer than 12 supreme engines of war, each of 43,000 tons.

ONLY ONE NEW SHIP

Therefore, Mr. Amery contended, as regards America and Japan, we were dealing with ships actually under construction; yet we had only one post-Jutland ship, namely, the Hood, equipped with merely 15-inch guns; and therefore, again, our program of re-

MARCH OF EVENTS

BY BRUCE HOPPER

COQUELICOTS, the blood red poppies of the battle trenches in France, are to bloom in America. The American Legion has decided to construct a miniature battlefield before its headquarters in honor of the late Col. F. W. Galbraith, Jr. To make the setting vivid to those who were fortunate enough to return from France the trenches are to be planted with poppy seed collected at Chateau Thierry and the Valley of the Meuse.

"I sometimes think that never blows so red,
The rose, as where some buried Caesar bled."

Omar also spoke for the coquelicot and the American soldier. The friendly flower smiled at the lad from overseas as he went under fire for the first time. It stiffened his morale when the barrage became hot around him. And when enemy shells shattered his trench and wiped out his fighting pals it clothed the wounds of the torn earth with the magic red of floral freshness.

Planting the battlefield coquelicot in America touches the passionate chord of war memories. Scenes come back with a rush. Other coquelicots, long since dead, reappear with the faces of men among them. For this undying bond with comrades the coquelicot is the flower and memory and vision to veterans of the war. May it prosper in American soil as it does in the heart of every soldier.

EXPEDITIONS of Elizabethan days in the vain search for a northeast passage to India are overshadowed in significance by the mission of a fleet of five ships now en route from England to the Obi and Yenesei rivers flowing into the Arctic ocean. Perhaps the most romantic page in the history of commerce is England's 16th century search for new markets, the northeast phase of which resulted in the Willoughby tragedy on the shores of the Kara sea. But Chancellor, who was sent to find Willoughby, discovered the White sea passage in 1555, travelled overland to Moscow, and returned to England with a letter from the Czar. And then was formed the Muscovy Company, the neucleus of Anglo-Russian trade.

While the rest of the world is waiting for Siberia to become safe for democrats and steel kings England is sending her flag across the ice floes of the all-sea route to the Yenesei. She will tap one of the richest regions of the earth. The route was not unknown to the daring traders of the Hanseatic League, but commerce has always been limited by the ice.

This first fleet will sail to the Siberian shore, and up the rivers for 2,000 miles. But to maintain a permanent trade route the European ships probably will have to unload at the Iron Gates of Kara, as the straits are free from ice for only a few weeks a year. Trans-shipment will be made in Siberian ships which can winter in the Yenesei estuary. Whatever the difficulties the point is that British merchants are risking a shipment of 11,000 tons of rails, farming machinery and tools to the far interior of western Siberia. In return is expected a cargo of 15,000 tons, including grain, sables, ermine, gold, timber and graphite.

One is tempted to ask about the mooted Alaska-Siberian railway which was planned to tunnel the 43 mile gap of the Bering Strait, and tie Chicago to Irkutsk and Moscow by rail. The idea seems to have slipped the public mind, but an office of the construction company is still maintained in Paris.

England, through the East India Company, was the successful bidder for Oriental trade in the past. With an Arctic route made possible by the modern ice-breaker, and the hardiness of her seamen, she may again win the race for [illegible] and raw material supplies. It is likely the trans-Siberian railway will be insecure for several years to come, and when other nations do send their traders into the heart of Siberia they will find Great Britain already at home, and conducting a small empire after the manner of the Hudson Bay and East India companies.

Maria Cioci, Central Figure In Peking Legation Sensation, Makes Startling Accusation

Declares Officials Induced Her To Sign A False 'Suicide' Statement After Attack In Hotel; Here On Way To Prosecute Marquise

Signora Maria Cioci, mysterious central figure in the recent sensational affair which shook Italian official circles in Peking, when she was attacked and almost killed in the Hotel des Wagons Lits and when Captain Pitri, Assistant Commercial Attache of the Italian Legation committed suicide, has arrived in Shanghai on her way to Italy to fight the matter of her assault out in the courts. She says she will bring charges against the Marquise Durazzo, wife of the Italian Minister, whom she accuses as her assailant.

In a statement to the press previous to her departure she makes the startling charges that she was influenced by Captain Pitri and Italian officials of the Legation to sign a supposed death-bed confession that her wounds were due to an attempt at suicide, thus clearing Signora Durazzo; and that on her second trip to Peking, made on the instructions and urging of Captain Pitri's family for the purpose of bringing the latter back to Italy, Italian Consular officials along the route attempted to prevent her reaching the capital.

In support of the former charge Signora Cioci gives out a copy of a statement which she declares was given her voluntarily by Pitri just before he shot himself to the effect that the "suicide" statement was not true, but had been given because of Signora Cioci's love for him. She calls attention also to the certificate given by the doctor who attended here, which states that her wounds could not, in his opinion, have been self-inflicted.

ARRIVED HERE WEDNESDAY

Signora Cioci arrived in Shanghai from Peking by the Wednesday night train and expects to sail for Italy by the Lloyd Triestino line August 26. She states that she has already retained legal counsel and that an account of the affair has been sent to Ancona, where it is understood Italian authorities have been conducting an investigation and where the trial is expected to take place.

Signora Cioci is still suffering from the effects of the attack made upon her. Her right wrist, which was badly slashed, is still in splints and her right hand is still gripped by a paralysis which her physician says may be permanent. Her forehead, almost the entire top and back of her head, her left wrist and her right shoulder are marked with jagged scars.

Rather full-faced, of medium height and of placid demeanor, Signora Cioci is scarcely the popularly conceived heroine for a story which might have been lived in the hectic days of the Medici and which even such a student of intrigue and sensation as Gaboriau must have extended his imagination to have written. Yet it was with a tense animation that she told her story, which she declares is now given "solely in the interests of the public and because only misleading statements have been published thus far."

The attack on Signora Cioci occurred on the night of June 9 and Captain Pitri shot himself on the night of June 13. The affair was swathed in mystery and on June 15 the Italian Legation issued a statement to the effect that it "did not admit" certain reports and published matter but that an inquiry was being conducted. The Italian Minister sailed from Tsingtau for Italy on July 21.

TELLS OF TWO TRIPS

Signora Cioci gave a definite statement of her movements since January 20 when she reached the Grand Hotel de Pekin, from which she phoned the Italian Legation. Captain Pitri who had been her friend for nine years, came advising her not to stay. He suggested that it would save money to rent a Chinese house, but later she proposed to return to Italy owing to lack of funds. He promised to join her there in four months and wired the Triestino Lloyd s.s. Pilsen for accommodations for her, a single cabin being reserved. Later he cancelled this as she decided to stay in Shanghai.

Due to change in plans she left on the Pilsen, February 7. At home she waited for letters but none came. Finally she consulted Captain Pitri's family and on their advice, returned on the Innsbruch, despite two cables advising her to wait a registered $20,000,000 Famine Surtax Collected, Yields Only Four Million For Famine!

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir,—In view of the present agitation for the immediate abolition of the famine-surtax, I desire publicity for the fact that the Shanghai Famine Relief Committee opposed these surtaxes from the beginning, for it required very little prophetic instinct to foretell what is now fast approaching a fait accompli, viz, that of the over twenty million dollars the surtaxes will bring in from the Customs, Railways, Telegraphs and Posts, the International Famine Relief Committees would only handle a small proportion, and four million is all the said International Committees have received. What about the remaining sixteen million dollars? Who knows? Who will ever know?

Six months ago Chinese business men here strongly protested against the surtax, but, possibly because the various foreign Chambers of Commerce were not willing to move on account of the sanction the Legations in Peking gave to the Customs surtax, little support was given to the protest by the foreign business interests; yet a prominent merchant told me yesterday that this surtax was the worst device yet invented by the Chinese Government, and calculated permanently to injure trade all over the land.

Six months ago I pointed out that the famine-surtax did not by any means end with the aforementioned 20 million dollars to be secured from the Customs, Railways, Telegraphs, and Posts, but meant a surtax at every likin-barrier all over China, which, of course, very materially affects the prices of goods landed in Shanghai.

There is no doubt that it was not a wise decision of the Legation in Peking when they agreed to the imposition of a famine-surtax, but all that is covered by such an agreement is the four million dollars loan on the security of the Customs-surtax, and while this Customs-surtax has not yet brought in the full amount, it is necessary to make clear that to date, the Chinese Government in Peking has drawn over ten million dollars from the famine-surtaxes, of which only four million is known really to have been used in genuine famine relief measures.

But, is it any use appealing to the military Tuchun-clique ruling, or misruling, in Peking? The only kind of appeal Peking understands is, force majeure, and the time has arrived when the Chinese and foreign business interests must take drastic action, not only to put an end now to this famine-surtax, but to see to it that such an unjust imposition is never again levied on the trade interests of China.

Unless speedy measures are taken from Peking immediately to end this iniquitous famine-surtax, any foreign help in future famines will be jeopardised; and many of us, who have freely given of our time and strength to assist the people of China, will not be inclined to spend ourselves in further works of mercy when the Government of the people for whom we are giving our strength has to be fought at every point. An ex-official, who retired in disgust to private life some years ago—one of the very few who has not made enough and to spare—said to me, a few months ago, "Mr. Souter, a people gets the kind of Government it deserves, and it's time we, particularly the young enlightened Chinese, set out to educate our own people. It may be necessary to safeguard our interests from foreign aggression, but it's essential that we use all our strength now to create a healthy public opinion in the management of our own affairs."

I am, Yours faithfully,

WM. E. SOUTER.

SILESIA CONFAB SLATED; DEBT TO BELGIANS TOPIC

Technical Questions Also To Be Considered By The Supreme Tribunal

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, August 3.—At the meeting of Allied Finance Ministers in Paris on Tuesday next—the day after the assembling of the Supreme Council—France will be represented by M. Doumer, Minister of Finance, and M. Loucheur, Minister of Reparations and Liberated Regions; Great Britain by Sir Robert Horne, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Belgium by M. Theunis, Minister of Finance.

According to the Petit Parisien, the object of this conference will consist merely in continuing the deliberation of certain technical matters which the Reparations Commission has not been able to dispose of, and were previously considered by a committee of experts in the middle of June.

This means that the conference will consider the question of the Belgian debt to be recovered from Germany, the cost of military occupation of the Rhine area, and perhaps the allocation among the smaller States of that part of the German indemnity left undivided by virtue of the Spa Agreement, and representing six percent of the whole.

HOLCOMB BACK TODAY; RETAINS FEDERAL POST

Committee To Greet District Attorney—Banquet Planned In His Honor

Major C. P. Holcomb, who is returning to Shanghai today with Mrs. Holcomb on the C. P. O. S. liner Empress of Russia from a trip to Washington, is to retain the post of United States District Attorney for China, according to advices from the national capital that have preceded him.

The Empress of Russia is to arrive off Woosung at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon and a welcoming committee has been formed to go down the river on the tender and greet Major Holcomb. On his arrival an informal reception will be held and following this a banquet is to be given in his honor, probably at the Astor House next week on a date to be announced. This has been arranged by members of the American Far Eastern Bar Association and friends of Major Holcomb.

While in Washington Major Holcomb among other matters took up with the Department of State changes that have been proposed as desirable in legal procedure in China. One of the things which it is reported that he urged was an extradition treaty with China which would enable the American Court to bring back culprits who flee to the United States after committing offenses in China.

In Major Holcomb's absence Mr. H. D. Rodger of the firm of Rodger and Haskell has been in charge of the office of U. S. District Attorney as acting U. S. District Attorney.

Dr. O'Hara Believed To Be Recovering After Heart Attack

Dr. W. E. O'Hara, prominent local physician who was taken to the General Hospital early Wednesday morning, the victim of a serious heart attack, was reported to be out of danger last night.

Dr. A. M. Massie, who was in attendance on Dr. O'Hara, stated that the crisis was past, that the patient was doing well and recovery should be only a matter of time. It is expected that Dr. O'Hara will be confined to his bed however for some little time.

China Trade Act Now In Hands Of Secretary Hughes

Peking, August 2.—The office of the commercial attache to the American Legation has received a dispatch from the Department of Commerce, saying that there is little doubt the China Trade Act will be enacted into law as soon as the Secretary of State passes on its constitutionality. It has been referred to Mr. Hughes for a decision.

The bill if passed will permit American business men in China to incorporate in Washington under provisions that will put them on an equal basis with business men of other nations regarding excess profits taxes.

French Marshal Investigates Conditions In Morocco Where Spanish Army Is Driven Out Of Territory

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, August 3.—The Temps points out that the recent opening of the Fez-Tasa Railway has enabled Marshal Lyautey to visit Eastern Morocco, where he has begun his work of pacification. At Tahouririt, Marshal Lyautey found a Spanish battalion which had been driven back into the French zone. He proposes to study the essential question of Eastern Morocco, and especially its economic relations.

According to Madrid advices, Mulai Hafid, the ex-Sultan of Morocco, has offered his unconditional surrender to the French Ambassador in Madrid, while an Italian paper avers that the Riffian agitator, Raisuli, has made proposals of surrender to Spain.

Ungern's Bandits Loot Urga's Chinese Stores

(Dalta News Agency)

Following is the second part of a Shanghai eyewitness' description of what took place when Ungern's cut-throats and soldiers occupied Urga.

In Urga is a street of Chinese shops and stores, more than half a mile in length. This street presented a scene of wreckage and utter destruction when the Ungernists completed their work.

The looting of the Chinese shops continued for several days. The bandits broke in doors and windows, and carried away the stocks despite the frenzied protests of the owners.

A house would be set afire from two sides, whereupon the bandits would rush up to save the goods. Everything would be cleared away—to the last shreds of any article of value, while the Chinese merchants could only look on helplessly. If they interfered or protested they were shot down. By such methods Ungern obtained huge quantities of goods which he sent by caravan to his agents in Hailar.

All the Chinese firms, from the smallest to the largest, with one exception, were looted. The firm of Yun-Go-Fah, with head office in Kalgan, alone escaped the general pillage, through the influence of friends close to the Ungern leaders.

The plundering was somewhat systematised thus: the warehouses and stores were given over to Ungern's troops, while the "chahars" (cut-throats) robbed the residences of wealthy citizens. Many Chinese, attempting to save their possessions were killed. It is not possible to give an exact number, but the slaughter is not reckoned in hundreds but runs into thousands.

HUGE STORE OF GOODS

After the looting was stopped, Ungern made a tour of inspection of the devastated parts of the city. Whatever had not been carried off by the bandits was taken to the quarter-master department. In a few days the warehouses were filled with furs, hides, and supplies of every description stolen from the Chinese merchants. Caravans carried immense quantities of merchandise to Hailar.

A third part of the entire proceeds was allotted to the notorious Colonel Sipylo, who has made the boast in his drunken orgies that he is now the wealthiest man in the East.

Four miles from Urga is the Chinese town of Maimachen. Here also, at the same time, exactly the same kind of looting was in progress. This little Chinese town was utterly demolished and its population massacred.

The eye-witness of these events in Urga saw, two days later, this little Chinese town in ruins. Stores, warehouses, and residences were wrecked; the bodies of dead Chinese lying in the streets made it impossible for an automobile to pass.

There was no sign of life; no sound of any kind, nothing but dead bodies and dogs making their way among the corpses.

HARDING ASKING BORAH TO KEEP QUIET ON CANAL

Tells Him To "Low Bridge" That Topic Now When Disarm Is Watchword

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Aug. 3.—It is understood that President Harding has informed the Senate Republican leaders that he is opposed to early action on Senator Borah's Bill, restoring free tolls to American coasters using the Panama Canal.

The President's decision is believed to be ascribable to a desire to avoid international disputes likely to prejudice the result of the forthcoming conference.

It is also believed that the President prefers a settlement of the toll question by means of diplomatic negotiation rather than by legislation.

Nevertheless, it is considered that Senator Borah is disposed to press his bill.

CHINESE FIGHTING

No Conclusive Clash Is As Yet Reported From Yochow

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hankow, August 4.—Reliable reports state that the Hunanese forces have regained ground and are advancing successfully, their right wing against Tungshan, their left against Chengli and in the center against Puchi, Taikoo and Asiatic Petroleum Company vessels were fired on, it is thought inadvertently, while crossing the fighting zone but no casualties occurred.

General Chiao Yao-nan's 25th Division is now stationed at Wuchang and in the immediate neighborhood, but its purpose there can only be surmised. The Peking-Hankow railway has been interrupted by floods and the mails delayed.

FIRE UPON BOAT

Hankow, Aug. 3.—The Taikoo steamer Shasi, while returning from Ichang, was fired on near Yochow, presumably by Hunanese. Some 500 shots and some shells are said to have been fired. A Chinese passenger was wounded.

There have been no further reports of any fighting, but the number of troops in the immediate neighborhood is very considerable. Their ultimate purpose is not clear.

Ichang, August 3.—Steamers from Hankow report having been fired on above Yochow.

CANTONESE ADVANCE

Hongkong, Aug. 3.—Owing to the refusal of General Wong Poi-kwai to hand over the administration of Nanning, the main army of the Cantonese is continuing its advance.

An ultimatum has been sent to General Wong Poi-kwai, requiring him to disarm the Kwangsi forces, and a general attack is threatened in the event of his non-compliance.

Canton, Aug. 3.—The present work of the Cantonese army consists mainly in disarming the former followers of General Lu Yung-ting who are unwilling actually to surrender, as they first promised to do.

WANG'S FAMLY GONE

Peking, August 2.—According to a Chinese telegram from Hankow General Wang Chan-yuan's family left there yesterday on a foreign steamer and the General's property in Hankow has been put into the hands of the Huasheng Company for sale.

TUCHUN WU WEAK

Peking, August 2.—It is reported that General Sun Lieh-chun will shortly be transferred back to Heilungkiang and General Wu Chun-sheng sent to Kirin, at the request of General Chang Tso-lin. The reason for this exchange of Tuchuns is said to be that General Wu is too weak for Heilungkiang post which is now a difficult one owing to events along the frontier.

Hupeh Citizens Now Appeal To Diplomats

Disappointed with Peking's inability to remove Wang Chan-yuan, Tuchun of Hupeh, who caused, Hupeh esidents alleged, all the mutinies in Ichang and Wuchang during the last seven months, representatives of local bodies of the province have issued a declaration of war against the tuchun and appealed to the Diplomatic Corps in Peking for their moral support.

The following is the message addressed to the envoys from various nations represented in Peking and signed by General Kung Beng, representing all the self-governing bodies in Hupeh and commander-in-chief of the "Self-Governing Army":

"We have the honor to inform you that we are convinced in order to secure the safety of the Republic of China and the restoration of her political order that it is absolutely necessary to introduce the system of self-government into every province. Further, it is the duty of the military governor of a province to protect the life and property of all residents, foreign and Chinese, within that province.

"But Wang Chan-yuan, military Governor of Hupeh, has been hindering all movements towards self-government in Hupeh, and, having held up the pay of his

It wasn't that she did not love her husband, but simply that she drew other men to her almost unconsciously as the candle-flame does the poor doomed moth. And some of the moths were mighty dangerous.

240 MILLION POUNDS FOR PROPER NAVY

Only One Vessel Of The British Fleet Is Of Modern Type

JUTLAND LESSON

America And Japan Plan Huge Increase In Battleships

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 3.—Speaking on the Navy Estimates in the House of Commons today, Mr. Leopold Amery (Secretary to the Admiralty) stated that the question of the desirability of building capital ships, or of concentrating on submarines and aeroplanes, had been most anxiously and searchingly investigated by the Admiralty and a sub-committee of the Imperial Defence Committee. Nothing had emerged from these deliberations, he said, to change the general and universally accepted conclusion that the capital ship was still the basis of sea-power.

The naval battles of the war had indisputably proved the immense advantage of the larger and more powerful ship. The submarine was very formidable, and had come to stay, but its power lay in concealment, for which it had to sacrifice speed and offensive and defensive power, and its power of concealment had been most seriously impaired, at any rate for a time, by the remarkable progress during the closing months of the war in scientific measures against submarines.

AIRCRAFT VITAL FACTOR

The aeroplane had become an indispensable factor in naval warfare, but it was not yet capable of carrying, or of discharging accurately at moving objects, projectiles more formidable than those against which the modern capital-ship was already protected. Its range was very limited, and, except for inshore warfare, it depended upon the aeroplane-carrier. All the new elements of naval warfare had acquired increased relative importance, and the fighting fleet of the future could no longer be regarded simply in terms of ships of the line.

The Imperial Cabinet, Mr. Amery went on, had considered the whole problem of the naval security of the Empire, and the conclusions to which that consideration led were embodied in a resolution passed at the meeting of the Prime Ministers of the Empire on July 27.

The resolution was as follows:

"While recognising the necessity of co-operation between the various portions of the Empire in providing such naval defense as may prove to be essential for security, and while holding that equality with the naval strength of any other Power is the minimum standard for that purpose, this Conference is of opinion that the method and extent of such co-operation are matters for the final determination of the several Parliaments concerned, and any recommendation upon them should be deferred until after the forthcoming conference on disarmament."

LEARN FROM JUTLAND

The Imperial Defense Committee had approved of the policy of laying down four capital-ships, which was solely a policy of replacing scrapped ships. It was the relentless pressure of the Grand Fleet, Mr. Amery declared, which had finally brought down the Central Empires, but that fleet was now largely obsolete, the few hours of fighting off Jutland had revolutionised the ideas of armament and battleship design.

The lessons of that fighting had been open to the world, and other Powers had not been slow to use them. There was being constructed at present a whole battle-fleet, incomparably more powerful than anything afloat at Jutland.

Japan was constructing eight capital ships, one of which was already completed. The others would be completed by 1925, and she had voted money for eight more, to be completed by 1928.

America—not taking into count four battleships of 32,000 tons and equipped with 16-inch guns, which were more powerful than our latest types—would have completed by the end of 1924 no fewer than 12 supreme engines of war, each of 43,000 tons.

ONLY ONE NEW SHIP

Therefore, Mr. Amery contended, as regards America and Japan, we were dealing with ships actually under construction; yet we had only one post-Jutland ship, namely, the Hood, equipped with merely 15-inch guns; and therefore, again, our program of re-

MARCH OF EVENTS

BY BRUCE HOPPER

COQUELICOTS, the blood red poppies of the battle trenches in France, are to bloom in America. The American Legion has decided to construct a miniature battlefield before its headquarters in honor of the late Col. F. W. Galbraith, Jr. To make the setting vivid to those who were fortunate enough to return from France the trenches are to be planted with poppy seed collected at Chateau Thierry and the Valley of the Meuse.

"I sometimes think that never blows so red,
The rose, as where some buried Caesar bled."

Omar also spoke for the coquelicot and the American soldier. The friendly flower smiled at the lad from overseas as he went under fire for the first time. It stiffened his morale when the barrage became hot around him. And when enemy shells shattered his trench and wiped out his fighting pals it clothed the wounds of the torn earth with the magic red of floral freshness.

Planting the battlefield coquelicot in America touches the passionate chord of war memories. Scenes come back with a rush. Other coquelicots, long since dead, reappear with the faces of men among them. For this undying bond with comrades the coquelicot is the flower and memory and vision to veterans of the war. May it prosper in American soil as it does in the heart of every soldier.

EXPEDITIONS of Elizabethan days in the vain search for a northeast passage to India are overshadowed in significance by the mission of a fleet of five ships now en route from England to the Obi and Yenesei rivers flowing into the Arctic ocean. Perhaps the most romantic page in the history of commerce is England's 16th century search for new markets, the northeast phase of which resulted in the Willoughby tragedy on the shores of the Kara sea. But Chancellor, who was sent to find Willoughby, discovered the White sea passage in 1555, travelled overland to Moscow, and returned to England with a letter from the Czar. And then was formed the Muscovy Company, the nucleus of Anglo-Russian trade.

While the rest of the world is waiting for Siberia to become safe for democrats and steel kings England is sending her flag across the ice floes of the all-sea route to the Yenesei. She will tap one of the richest regions of the earth. The route was not unknown to the daring traders of the Hanseatic League, but commerce has always been limited by the ice.

This first fleet will sail to the Siberian shore, and up the rivers for 2,000 miles. But to maintain a permanent trade route the European ships probably will have to unload at the Iron Gates of Kara, as the straits are free from ice for only a few weeks a year. Trans-shipment will be made in Siberian ships which can winter in the Yenesei estuary. Whatever the difficulties the point is that British merchants are risking a shipment of 11,000 tons of rails, farming machinery and tools to the far interior of western Siberia. In return is expected a cargo of 15,000 tons, including grain, sables, ermine, gold, timber and graphite.

One is tempted to ask about the mooted Alaska-Siberian railway which was planned to tunnel the 43 mile gap of the Bering Strait, and tie Chicago to Irkutsk and Moscow by rail. The idea seems to have slipped the public mind, but an office of the construction company is still maintained in Paris.

England, through the East India Company, was the successful bidder for Oriental trade in the past. With an Arctic route made possible by the modern ice-breaker, and the hardiness of her seamen, she may again win the race for markets and raw material supplies. It is likely the trans-Siberian railway will be insecure for several years to come, and when other nations do send their traders into the heart of Siberia they will find Great Britain already at home, and conducting a small empire after the manner of the Hudson Bay and East India companies.

Declares Officials Induced Her To Sign A False 'Suicide' Statement After Attack In Hotel; Here On Way To Prosecute Marquise

Signora Maria Cioci, mysterious central figure in the recent sensational affair which shook Italian official circles in Peking, when she was attacked and almost killed in the Hotel des Wagons Lits and when Captain Pitri, Assistant Commercial Attache of the Italian Legation committed suicide, has arrived in Shanghai on her way to Italy to fight the matter of her assault out in the courts. She says she will bring charges against the Marquise Durazzo, wife of the Italian Minister, whom she accuses as her assailant.

In a statement to the press previous to her departure she makes the startling charges that she was influenced by Captain Pitri and Italian officials of the Legation to sign a supposed deathbed confession that her wounds were due to an attempt at suicide, thus clearing Signora Durazzo; and that on her second trip to Peking, made on the instructions and urging of Captain Pitri's family for the purpose of bringing the latter back to Italy, Italian Consular officials along the route attempted to prevent her reaching the capital.

In support of the former charge Signora Cioci gives out a copy of a statement which she declares was given her voluntarily by Pitri just before he shot himself, to the effect that the "suicide" statement was not true, but had been given because of Signora Cioci's love for him. She calls attention also to the certificate given by the doctor who attended here, which states that her wounds could not, in his opinion, have been self-inflicted.

ARRIVED HERE WEDNESDAY

Signora Cioci arrived in Shanghai from Peking by the Wednesday night train and expects to sail for Italy by the Lloyd Triestino line August 26. She states that she has already retained legal counsel and that an account of the affair has been sent to Ancona, where it is understood Italian authorities have been conducting an investigation and where the trial is expected to take place.

Signora Cioci is still suffering from the effects of the attack made upon her. Her right wrist, which was badly slashed, is still in splints and her right hand is still gripped by a paralysis which her physician says may be permanent. Her forehead, almost the entire top and back of her head, her left wrist and her right shoulder are marked with jagged scars.

Rather full-faced, of medium height and of placid demeanor, Signora Cioci is scarcely the popularly conceived heroine for a story which might have been lived in the hectic days of the Medici and which even such a student of intrigue and sensation as Gaboriau must have extended his imagination to have written. Yet it was with a tense animation that she told her story, which she declares is now given "solely in the interests of the public and because only misleading statements have been published thus far."

The attack on Signora Cioci occurred on the night of June 9 and Captain Pitri shot himself on the night of June 13. The affair was swathed in mystery and on June 15 the Italian Legation issued a statement to the effect that it "did not admit" certain reports and published matter but that an inquiry was being conducted. The Italian Minister sailed from Tsingtau for Italy on July 21.

TELLS OF TWO TRIPS

Signora Cioci gave a definite statement of her movements since January 20 when she reached the Grand Hotel de Pekin, from which she phoned the Italian Legation. Captain Pitri who had been her friend for nine years, came advising her not to stay. He suggested that it would save money to rent a Chinese house, but later she proposed to return to Italy owing to lack of funds. He promised to join her there in four months and wired the Triestino Lloyd s.s. Pilsen for accommodations for her, a single cabin being reserved. Later he cancelled this as she decided to stay in Shanghai.

Due to change in plans she left on the Pilsen, February 7. At home she waited for letters but none came. Finally she consulted Captain Pitri's family and on their advice, returned on the Innsbruch, despite two cables advising her to wait a registered $20,000,000 Famine Surtax Collected, Yields Only Four Million For Famine!

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir.—In view of the present agitation for the immediate abolition of the famine-surtax, I desire publicity for the fact that the Shanghai Famine Relief Committee opposed these surtaxes from the beginning, for it required very little prophetic instinct to foretell what is now fast approaching a fait accompli, viz, that of the over twenty million dollars the surtaxes will bring in from the Customs, Railways, Telegraphs and Posts, the International Famine Relief Committees would only handle a small proportion, and four million is all the said International Committees have received. What about the remaining sixteen million dollars? Who knows? Who will ever know?

Six months ago Chinese business men here strongly protested against the surtax, but, possibly because the various foreign Chambers of Commerce were not willing to move on account of the sanction the Legations in Peking gave to the Customs surtax, little support was given to the protest by the foreign business interests; yet a prominent merchant told me yesterday that this surtax was the worst device yet invented by the Chinese Government, and calculated permanently to injure trade all over the land.

Six months ago I pointed out that the famine-surtax did not by any means end with the aforementioned 20 million dollars to be secured from the Customs, Railways, Telegraphs, and Posts, but meant a surtax at every likin-barrier all over China, which, of course, very materially affects the prices of goods landed in Shanghai.

There is no doubt that it was not a wise decision of the Legation in Peking when they agreed to the imposition of a famine-surtax, but all that is covered by such an agreement is the four million dollars loan on the security of the Customs-surtax, and while this Customs-surtax has not yet brought in the full amount, it is necessary to make clear that to date, the Chinese Government in Peking has drawn over ten million dollars from the famine-surtaxes, of which only four million is known really to have been used in genuine famine relief measures.

But, is it any use appealing to the military Tuchun-clique ruling, or misruling, in Peking? The only kind of appeal Peking understands is, force majeure, and the time has arrived when the Chinese and foreign business interests must take drastic action, not only to put an end now to this famine-surtax, but to see to it that such an unjust imposition is never again levied on the trade interests of China.

Unless speedy measures are taken from Peking immediately to end this iniquitous famine-surtax, any foreign help in future famines will be jeopardised; and many of us, who have freely given of our time and strength to assist the people of China, will not be inclined to spend ourselves in further works of mercy when the Government of the people for whom we are giving our strength has to be fought at every point. An ex-official, who retired in disgust to private life some years ago—one of the very few who has not made enough and to spare—said to me, a few months ago, "Mr. Souter, a people gets the kind of Government it deserves, and it's time we, particularly the young enlightened Chinese, set out to educate our own people. It may be necessary to safeguard our interests from foreign aggression, but it's essential that we use all our strength now to create a healthy public opinion in the management of our own affairs."

I am, Yours faithfully,
WM. E. SOUTER.

Shanghai, Aug. 4, 1921.

SILESIA CONFAB SLATED; DEBT TO BELGIANS TOPIC

Technical Questions Also To Be Considered By The Supreme Tribunal

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, August 3.—At the meeting of Allied Finance Ministers in Paris on Tuesday next—the day after the assembling of the Supreme Council—France will be represented by M. Doumer, Minister of Finance, and M. Loucheur, Minister of Reparations and Liberated Regions; Great Britain by Sir Robert Horne, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Belgium by M. Theunis, Minister of Finance.

According to the Petit Parisien, the object of this conference will consist merely in continuing the deliberation of certain technical matters which the Reparations Commission has not been able to dispose of, and were previously considered by a committee of experts in the middle of June.

This means that the conference will consider the question of the Belgian debt to be recovered from Germany, the cost of military occupation of the Rhine area, and perhaps the allocation among the smaller States of that part of the German indemnity left undivided by virtue of the Spa Agreement, and representing six percent of the whole.

HOLCOMB BACK TODAY; RETAINS FEDERAL POST

Committee To Greet District Attorney—Banquet Planned In His Honor

Major C. P. Holcomb, who is returning to Shanghai today with Mrs. Holcomb on the C. P. O. S. liner Empress of Russia from a trip to Washington, is to retain the post of United States District Attorney for China, according to advices from the national capital that have preceded him.

The Empress of Russia is to arrive off Woosung at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon and a welcoming committee has been formed to go down the river on the tender and greet Major Holcomb. On his arrival an informal reception will be held and following this a banquet is to be given in his honor, probably at the Astor House next week on a date to be announced. This has been arranged by members of the American Far Eastern Bar Association and friends of Major Holcomb.

While in Washington Major Holcomb among other matters took up with the Department of State changes that have been proposed as desirable in legal procedure in China. One of the things which it is reported that he urged was an extradition treaty with China which would enable the American Court to bring back culprits who flee to the United States after committing offenses in China.

In Major Holcomb's absence Mr. H. D. Rodger of the firm of Rodger and Haskell has been in charge of the office of U. S. District Attorney as acting U. S. District Attorney.

Dr. O'Hara Believed To Be Recovering After Heart Attack

Dr. W. E. O'Hara, prominent local physician who was taken to the General Hospital early Wednesday morning, the victim of a serious heart attack, was reported to be out of danger last night.

Dr. A. M. Massie, who was in attendance on Dr. O'Hara, stated that the crisis was past, that the patient was doing well and recovery should be only a matter of time. It is expected that Dr. O'Hara will be confined to his bed however for some little time.

China Trade Act Now In Hands Of Secretary Hughes

Peking, August 2.—The office of the commercial attache to the American Legation has received a dispatch from the Department of Commerce, saying that there is little doubt the China Trade Act will be enacted into law as soon as the Secretary of State passes on its constitutionality. It has been referred to Mr. Hughes for a decision.

The bill if passed will permit American business men in China to incorporate in Washington under provisions that will put them on an equal basis with business men of other nations regarding excess profits taxes.

French Marshal Investigates Conditions In Morocco Where Spanish Army Is Driven Out Of Territory

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, August 3.—The Temps points out that the recent opening of the Fez-Tasa Railway has enabled Marshal Lyautey to visit Eastern Morocco, where he has begun his work of pacification. At Tahouririt, Marshal Lyautey found a Spanish battalion which had been driven back into the French zone. He proposes to study the essential question of Eastern Morocco, and especially its economic relations.

According to Madrid advices, Mulai Hafid, the ex-Sultan of Morocco, has offered his unconditional surrender to the French Ambassador in Madrid, while an Italian paper avers that the Riffian agitator, Raisuli, has made proposals of surrender to Spain.

Ungern's Bandits Loot Urga's Chinese Stores

(Dalta News Agency)

Following is the second part of a Shanghai eyewitness' description of what took place when Ungern's cut-throats and soldiers occupied Urga.

In Urga is a street of Chinese shops and stores, more than half a mile in length. This street presented a scene of wreckage and utter destruction when the Ungernists completed their work.

The looting of the Chinese shops continued for several days. The bandits broke in doors and windows, and carried away the stocks despite the frenzied protests of the owners.

A house would be set afire from two sides, whereupon the bandits would rush up to save the goods. Everything would be cleared away—to the last shreds of any article of value, while the Chinese merchants could only look on helplessly. If they interfered or protested they were shot down. By such methods Ungern obtained huge quantities of goods which he sent by caravan to his agents in Hailar.

All the Chinese firms, from the smallest to the largest, with one exception, were looted. The firm of Yun-Go-Fah, with head office in Kalgan, alone escaped the general pillage, through the influence of friends close to the Ungern leaders.

The plundering was somewhat systematised thus: the warehouses and stores were given over to Ungern's troops, while the "chahars" (cut-throats) robbed the residences of wealthy citizens. Many Chinese, attempting to save their possessions were killed. It is not possible to give an exact number, but the slaughter is not reckoned in hundreds but runs into thousands.

HUGE STORE OF GOODS

After the looting was stopped, Ungern made a tour of inspection of the devastated parts of the city. Whatever had not been carried off by the bandits was taken to the quarter-master department. In a few days the warehouses were filled with furs, hides, and supplies of every description stolen from the Chinese merchants. Caravans carried immense quantities of merchandise to Hailar.

A third part of the entire proceeds was allotted to the notorious Colonel Sipylo, who has made the boast in his drunken orgies that he is now the wealthiest man in the East.

Four miles from Urga is the Chinese town of Maimachen. Here also, at the same time, exactly the same kind of looting was in progress. This little Chinese town was utterly demolished and its population massacred.

The eye-witness of these events in Urga saw, two days later, this little Chinese town in ruins. Stores, warehouses, and residences were wrecked; the bodies of dead Chinese lying in the streets made it impossible for an automobile to pass.

There was no sign of life; no sound of any kind, nothing but dead bodies and dogs making their way among the corpses.

HARDING ASKING BORAH TO KEEP QUIET ON CANAL

Tells Him To "Low Bridge" That Topic Now When Disarm Is Watchword

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Aug. 3.—It is understood that President Harding has informed the Senate Republican leaders that he is opposed to early action on Senator Borah's Bill, restoring free tolls to American coasters using the Panama Canal.

The President's decision is believed to be ascribable to a desire to avoid international disputes likely to prejudice the result of the forthcoming conference.

It is also believed that the President prefers a settlement of the toll question by means of diplomatic negotiation rather than by legislation.

Nevertheless, it is considered that Senator Borah is disposed to press his bill.

CHINESE FIGHTING

No Conclusive Clash Is As Yet Reported From Yochow

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hankow, August 4.—Reliable reports state that the Hunanese forces have regained ground and are advancing successfully, their right wing against Tungshan, their left against Chengli and in the center against Puchi, Taikoo and Asiatic Petroleum Company vessels were fired on, it is thought inadvertently, while crossing the fighting zone but no casualties occurred.

General Chiao Yao-nan's 25th Division is now stationed at Wuchang and in the immediate neighborhood, but its purpose there can only be surmised. The Peking-Hankow railway has been interrupted by floods and the mails delayed.

FIRE UPON BOAT

Hankow, Aug. 3.—The Taikoo steamer Shasi, while returning from Ichang, was fired on near Yochow, presumably by Hunanese. Some 500 shots and some shells are said to have been fired. A Chinese passenger was wounded.

There have been no further reports of any fighting, but the number of troops in the immediate neighborhood is very considerable. Their ultimate purpose is not clear.

Ichang, August 3.—Steamers from Hankow report having been fired on above Yochow.

CANTONESE ADVANCE

Hongkong, Aug. 3.—Owing to the refusal of General Wong Pei-kwai to hand over the administration of Nanning, the main army of the Cantonese is continuing its advance.

An ultimatum has been sent to General Wong Pei-kwai, requiring him to disarm the Kwangsi forces, and a general attack is threatened in the event of his non-compliance.

Canton, Aug. 3.—The present work of the Cantonese army consists mainly in disarming the former followers of General Lu Yung-ting who are unwilling actually to surrender, as they first promised to do.

WANG'S FAMLY GONE

Peking, August 2.—According to a Chinese telegram from Hankow General Wang Chan-yuan's family left there yesterday on a foreign steamer and the General's property in Hankow has been put into the hands of the Huasheng Company for sale.

TUCHUN WU WEAK

Peking, August 2.—It is reported that General Sun Lieh-chun will shortly be transferred back to Heilungkiang and General Wu Chun-sheng sent to Kirin, at the request of General Chang Tso-lin. The reason for this exchange of Tuchuns is said to be that General Wu is too weak for Heilungkiang post which is now a difficult one, owing to events along the frontier.

Hupeh Citizens Now Appeal To Diplomats

Disappointed with Peking's inability to remove Wang Chan-yuan, Tuchun of Hupeh, who caused, Hupeh residents alleged, all the mutinies in Ichang and Wuchang during the last seven months, representatives of local bodies of the province have issued a declaration of war against the tuchun and appealed to the Diplomatic Corps in Peking for their moral support.

The following is the message addressed to the envoys from various nations represented in Peking and signed by General Kung Keng, representing all the self-governing bodies in Hupeh and commander-in-chief of the "Self-Governing Army":

"We have the honor to inform you that we are convinced in order to secure the safety of the Republic of China and the restoration of her political order that it is absolutely necessary to introduce the system of self-government into every province. Further, it is the duty of the military governor of a province to protect the life and property of all residents, foreign and Chinese, within that province.

"But Wang Chan-yuan, military Governor of Hupeh, has been hindering all movements towards self-government in Hupeh, and, having held up the pay of his soldiers to enrich himself, brought about mutinies throughout the province with the result that thousands of lives have been lost and hundreds of millions of property, foreign and Chinese, have been destroyed. For these reasons, we have petitioned the Peking Government to dismiss him, but, although approving our request, it openly confesses that it is beyond its power to do so. To prevent the repetition of such disorders and to secure the introduction of self-government in Hupeh, we can only resort to arms.

"Accordingly, on July 22 we assembled and enacted the provisional constitution of Hupeh. In accordance with this constitution, we elected General Ching Tso-ping as provisional superintendent of Hupeh in charge of all services civil and military. On the same day, he assumed his office, and is now commanding the Hupeh self-governing army northwards, with the aid of Hunan soldiers, for the removal of Wang Chan-yuan and for the protection of the life and property of all residents, foreign and Chinese, in Hupeh. Under whatever circumstances, none of these soldiers is allowed to cause any trouble. We sincerely hope that, in order to avoid any misunderstanding on the part of your subjects or citizens in China, you will kindly inform them of the aim and the nature of our movement.

"As the Peking Government and Wang Chan-yuan have failed to represent Hupeh through their inability to control it, you and your subjects or citizens are requested, from the day on which our movement commenced, to break off all relations as to Hupeh—political, economical and what not—with the Peking Government and Wang Chan-yuan and all their subordinate organisations, and by no means supply them with provisions and ammunitions to perpetuate our internal strife and mar the friendship between your nation and ours."

Szechuen Troops Now Concentrated In Ichang

Twenty thousand Szechuenese soldiers are now at Ichang, according to a Peking telegram printed in the Chinese press. General Liu Hsiang has been appointed commander-in-chief for the attack on Hupeh and has issued a manifesto declaring that the movement is for the sole purpose of ousting Tuchun Wang, that the Szechuenese have no other object and that the action is not due to any Cantonese pressure or advice.

Chao Heng-ti Is Out To Help Oust Wang

Contrary to reports indicating that Chao Heng-ti, Hunan's Military Chief, was occupying a passive position in the Hunan-Hupeh conflict, an open declaration issued on Tuesday by him casts his lot with the revolutionists against Hupeh's warlord, Wang Chan-yuan. The full text of his message is as follows:

"The world is clamoring for democracy. The genuine principle of democracy lies in the fact that since the country is made up of the people it should have a government of the people, by the people and for the people.

"To this end we have ever been working for a federal form of constitutional government by introducing the scheme of provincial autonomy. In this respect Hunan has assumed the leadership among other provinces which have responded one after another. The responsibility that consequently devolves upon us is tremendous, and we should be, as we are, always ready to respond to the sacred call.

"A sacred duty is now before us. The people of Hupeh have made an appeal to us to render them a helping hand, since they have for a long time been groaning under the yoke of militarism. Wuhan was the cradle of the revolution of 1911, but it has become the resort of bandit-troops that have repeatedly wrought havoc upon the people.

"The fact that we are their neighbors makes it imperative for us to go to their rescue. The cause of self-government demands that we should not remain indifferent.

"Wherefore, we hereby declare that we launch an expedition against the military autocrat of Hupeh, and we hereby appoint Sung Ho-kang Commander-in-Chief and Lu Ti-ping Associate Commander of the expeditionary forces.

"You officers and soldiers shall conform strictly to the following orders:

"You shall enforce strict military discipline.

"You shall be friendly to other troops fighting for the common cause.

"You shall not molest the people.

"You shall not disturb foreigners and shall accord them every protection.

"You shall not struggle for personal gain.

"You shall treat leniently the prisoners of war.

"You shall not pillage, rape, or commit incendiary acts.

"You all must know that we are fighting for a righteous cause and so our actions must likewise be guided by righteousness.

"Capital punishment will be inflicted upon any one violating any of the above mentioned orders.

"Be brave, the people of Hunan and Hupeh have confidence in you."

No Question Of His Removal—Yes? No?

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 2.—According to Chinese reports there is no longer any question of General Chang Kwei-ti being removed from the post of Tutung of Jehol. General Chang is immensely popular with his own troops who are said to be very efficient, especially in rifle shooting, but there is reason to believe that the "Grand Old Man" has recently permitted a recrudescence of poppy cultivation in the Jehol region, notwithstanding his official declaration of intention entirely to suppress it.

Save Me Again, Cries Wang To Peking Party

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, August 2.—General Wang Chan-yuan today sent an appeal to the Peking Government, asking that all the Super-Tuchuns and Tuchuns of the North, come to his aid and save the Peiyang party and with it the Peking Government from a possible overthrow at the hands of a federated force composed of the troops of Szechuen, Kweichow, Kwangtung and Yunnan.

The four provinces, Wang said in his appeal, have definitely decided on Wang's overthrow and unless they are definitely stopped the situation will become extremely serious for Peking.

Wang said that while the Hunan forces are not advancing, they are mobilised and are waiting for strong reinforcements from the other provinces. He repeats the words of General Chang Tso-lin, that it is now a question of Wang himself but a question of preserving the Peiyang Military party.

The appeal for help was not borne out by other reports however, one which said that the former military governor of Szechuen, General Hsiun Ke-wu, had left Hankow for his home and that so far as he was concerned there would be no attack on the part of Szechuen. The new military party however is strong in Szechuen and following local trouble there might be an attack.

SITUATION SERIOUS

In all foreign circles today, the Hupeh-Hunan situation was considered more serious and the common question asked was, why the Peking Government didn't stop it when it would take but one minute to do so. The one minute would be sufficient, they said, to order the removal of General Wang Chan-yuan.

The situation is becoming more complex. Wu Pei-fu has declined to take full charge of the Hupeh defense, saying the Shensi troubles are not yet over and that he cannot give his time to the Hupeh defense. His representative, Hsiao Yao-nan is in charge of military operations and is directing his attention to guarding the Hanyang Arsenal. General Chin Yun-ao, brother of the Premier and a representative of Chang Tso-lin is at Wuchang watching developments and a break between the two is feared by many foreigners.

Wu Pei-fu has recommended that General Hsiao be made assistant director of military operations, thus relieving Wang.

No action has been taken regarding this recommendation nor on that of General Tsao Kun that Pan Chi-yuin be made Civil Governor of Hupeh. Tsao believes this appointment might do something to ease the trouble in Hupeh.

There seemed today to be no likelihood that Chao Heng-ti would decide to abandon his war against Hupeh and unless the Government decides to remove Wang or finds another solution to the difficulty, the war will go on as Chao has the force he desires.

Chang Tso-lin Return Money? What A Chance

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, August 1.—Need for Chang Tso-lin's Urga expedition has apparently passed, with the definite statement that the Far Eastern Republic will return Urga and Mongolia to China unconditionally. Ignatius Yourin, Minister of Foreign Affairs for the Chita Government told of Chita's plans in his statement to Peking newspapermen last Saturday and there is no need for a large Chinese force in Urga.

Mr. Yohrin went to Mukden today attended by several members of the Chita Mission in Peking. He will spend a short time there discussing the situation with Chang Tso-lin and then will return to Chita where he is expected to take charge of the negotiations with Japan, regarding a treaty and the withdrawal of Japanese troops from the Far Eastern Republic.

The Government in addition to the mandate giving Chang Tso-lin control of Mongolia, has empowered him to treat with Mr. Yourin in the matter. The Mongolian matter will be treated separately from the trade agreement which the two countries are now considering.

It is said that General Chang has been assured that while Ungern is still to the west of Urga and has a force of brigands with him, the Chita forces are capable of handling the situation. There is no disposition in Peking to doubt that Chita will fulfil her promise to return Mongolia.

About the only question now regarding the Mongolian matter in Peking officials' minds is whether Chang Tso-lin relieved of the Urga job, will return the money sent to him to defray the expenses of the long campaign.

Don't Muddle Hupeh Mixup, Chang Is Told

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, August 2.—Indications that the Government doesn't want General Chang Tso-lin to muddle the Hupeh situation were contained today in a dispatch sent to the Mukden Super Tuchun by H. E. President Hsu Shih-chang. The President in this dispatch said that the Hupeh situation is well in hand, so far as Peking is concerned but the Mongolian situation is not as so promising a condition.

Chang is therefore requested to proceed with his expedition and be prepared to take over the control at Urga on the retirement of the troops of the Far Eastern Republic.

Ignatius Yourin, Minister of Foreign Affairs for the Chita Government has given China and Chang Tso-lin definite assurances that Mongolia will be returned unconditionally but he also said that Ungern is still west of Urga with a force of bandits and that these must be put down before the Chita troops leave.

The President apparently believes that Chang might show China's willingness to help Chita but Chang is the man who decides such questions and he has decided that the Urga expedition is off.

A report reaching Peking today from Mukden says that Chang plans to open a new bank with the money given him by the Government for the expedition. Nothing was said however about giving the Government any preferred or common stock in the new institution.

General Wang Chan-yuan has asked General Wu Pei-fu to send no more troops saying there is no need for them. Troops under Hsiao Yao-nan are not moving for the front, it is claimed, and are merely on-lookers. Hunan delegates have invited General Wu to fill Wang's post when he vacates either on his own initiative or from force.

A group of Hupehese of Kwangtung extraction now have organised a complete provisional government, ready to function the moment Wang Chan-yuan is forced out of office. These men, whose names have not yet been made public, have collected a fund equivalent to the arreared salaries of 30,000 men and officers and agree to turn this over to the Hunan officers as soon as the Wang faction falls.

Canton To Join Peking For Pacific Conference

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, August 1.—The Canton Government, according to messages received in foreign circles today is willing to join with Peking in the representation at the Pacific Conference in Washington, but Canton must be satisfied with the delegates chosen.

Unless a satisfactory delegate is named, according to these reports, Dr. Sun Yat-sen will protest at Washington that Peking does not represent China.

Sun is said to have indicated a choice and this indication is believed to pave the way for a completely united delegation. The announcement that Sun will make a disturbance at Washington, is looked upon as a political move for the Peking Government has from the first planned to have one or more of the South's strongest men on the delegation.

C. T. WANG ACCEPTABLE

The name of Dr. C. T. Wang has been frequently mentioned and he is said to be entirely acceptable to the South. The office of Foreign Affairs was said to have sent to the Cabinet today a recommendation made by Dr. Wellington Koo that the ministry be given full responsibility for settling and negotiating settlements in all international affairs and that the Cabinet be responsible for handling all interior matters.

In most foreign as well as in Chinese circles this procedure is considered logical because of the widespread confidence in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs as it is now constituted. If the Cabinet acquiesces and it is generally believed that it will, the selection of the delegation will be handled by the foreign office. Foreign offices in nearly all countries are separated from the political factions.

An impartial delegation at the Pacific Conference would, under the proposed plan, be entirely probable. It is known that the Government is already at work on the preliminary matters incident to the Conference.

No dispatches have yet been received telling of the definite date for the conference but it is generally believed that November 11 will mark the opening.

JAPAN MUST WORK FAST

An effort to settle the Shantung case before the conference will be made by Japan, according to Japanese publications. Mr. Obata, Japanese Minister to China will arrive in Kobe August 3 and is expected to return reaching Tientsin August 10. Japanese papers have said that the Government wishes to settle most of its Far East problems before the conference so that only general subjects pertaining to disarmament and preservation of peace may be discussed there.

While no information has been received at the Japanese Legation in Peking as to Japan's attitude on the conference invitation, it is generally believed in unofficial Japanese circles that the country will accept the invitation regardless of Washington's reply to the request for certain reservations. It is pointed out by Japanese citizens that Japan has never refused to accept an invitation to discuss matters that affect either the world peace or questions concerning the Far East.

Mixed Court Jottings

Twenty-seven cases involving motor vehicles were heard by the Special Traffic Court yesterday, the charges in most cases being for minor infringements of the regulations. One chauffeur convicted of reckless driving and causing injuries to occupants of a car was sentenced to one month's imprisonment. Others were assessed fines ranging from $3 to $20.

Oskar Kolker, a Finnish seaman, was fined $5 by the Mixed Court yesterday, for being drunk and disorderly.

Mr. A. Stone, 45 Boone Road, who last week prosecuted a chauffeur on a charge of assault, appeared as complainant in another assault case against another chauffeur yesterday. The complainant claimed that the chauffeur had wilfully damaged his car and then had caught hold of him and pulled him about when he refused to pay the man's wages. The defendant was found guilty and was cautioned and required to sign a bond to keep the peace.

Four Chinese arrested on a larceny charge confessed twenty-two further cases of theft when questioned by the police. The leader of the quartette was sentenced to two years' imprisonment yesterday and the others to one year each. Most of the stolen property has been recovered.

Two men convicted of running opium dens at 287 Foochow Road drew jail sentences of one month each.

Two coolies appeared yesterday on the charge of stealing nine barrels of indigo dye, the property of Messrs. Ault and Wiborg, from outside a godown in McGregor Road.

'CAPPEN' QUINN'S QUEER QUEST OF QUARTS QUARRY

Quenches Qualms In Quantity Of Quaffable Quiescence Queller To Quiet Quandary

Here's the tale of an oasis in a Sahara of Pussyfootism.

Mayhap that's not a likely description—let's call it a yarn spun from the froth of the high rolling, breaking waves on an arid coast.

Anyway, it's all about things that shoemakers and the retail peddlers who do the public the most damage should be interested in.

Bootleggers!

That's the title of the novel. To those immured to the graduated degrees of prohibition in American communities the yarn may not be spun so fine as to those who got the jolt all in a bunch. However, it is worth the telling.

Cappen Tommy Quinn, of the City of Spokane, safest, kindest and—in his line of duty—strictest of American Shipping Board commanders, when on shore is inclined to yarn a bit and tells the truth, strange as that may seem from a weather worn sea dog, most of the time.

"How about prohibition in the States?" the Skipper was asked.

"It is and it isn't," was his somewhat enigmatic reply.

"How come?"

"Well, you see it happens that British Columbia is wet again, after a protracted Saharaism, and the 'gun runners' who used to operate from wet to dry states in the Union are taking a chance on the International Boundry.

"Whenever a booze-laden car lands in Seattle and is grabbed by the police or the county authorities it is confiscated.

"Result?

"Daily auctions of automobiles from flivvers to twin-sixes on the Court House steps."

The Skipper ruminated,

"That's not the best one, though," sez he.

"I've a friend who has a fast motor launch and a skiff tender and he loafs around the Sound having a regular time when the weather is fair; and he isn't afraid of a storm, either.

"This chap was out in the skiff one night just drifting around, lying on a tarfaulen and taking things easy while he flirted with the Lady in the Moon and wafted an occasional kiss to Venus.

"Clut-putt-pit-putt-clutt, he heard, and cocked a semi-somnolent eye over the weather bow of his craft. He saw a motorboat in the offing.

"'What thing,' he queried mentally, and awaited developments.

"The launch made its way to the kelp beds and upon its arrival there he heard a series of splashes. Then the motor launch departed.

"My friend took to his oars and did a bit of exploring. He found six floats, such as are used to buoy fish nets on the waters among the kelp.

"Without further regard for Lunar beauty or the witchery of the stars he pulled for home. There he cranked up his own launch and set out on a pirate quest.

"His haul was six gunny sacks laden with 120 quarts of Number One whiskey."

"What happened to the loot?"

"How should I know?" indignantly countered the Skipper, who may have a County Clare name but certainly possesses a New England disposition in repartee.

Proper Navy Aim Of British Who Vote A Cool £240Millions

placing four obsolete ships to be completed by 1925, and not contain any element of challenge or provocation.

On the other hand, the Government was allowing the Navy temporarily to become inferior to other navies. This risk was justified only by the international financial situation and the desirability of avoiding any step that would invite fresh competition upon the eve of the Washington Conference, which would meet with a view to ascertaining whether by broad agreements of policy in the future, the ever-increasing competition could be prevented.

SCRAPPING UNLIKELY

But it was not likely that the other Powers at the Conference would offer to scrap the ships now being built. Therefore, the proposed British construction could not affect the problem before the Conference. Our policy was one of gradual replacement within the narrowest limits, and postponed to the latest date, which the safety of the Empire permitted.

Mr. Amery emphasised that these risks could only be taken because, owing to our unique war experience, in personnel we were well ahead of other Powers for the next few years. The very existence of the Empire was completely staked upon the high morale and professional efficiency of the Navy, which could not be sustained indefinitely on obsolete ships.

The proposed four battleships would be of the Hood type, with improvements in protection and armaments, embodying the experience of the war. As Japan's and America's new ships were being armed with 16-inch guns, we could do likewise, but the dimensions of the ships would not necessitate larger docks.

The idea has been merely to furnish modern ships in which the personnel of the Navy and the Empire, whose existence might depend on them, might have every right to feel confidence.

CHURCHILL CLOSES DEBATE

Mr. Winston Churchill (Colonial Secretary) in winding up the debate on the Naval Estimates made an eloquent plea for the maintenance of Great Britain as a first class sea Power. He asked what the Dominions would say if we were to tell them:

"We cannot guard you. We cannot any longer extend you that protection which thus far it has always been our proud boast to supply." We had never said that yet, Mr. Churchill added, and he trusted we never should be reduced to such a position.

The naval vote was then agreed to when the "guillotine" fell on the outstanding votes in supply, sums amounting to £240,000,000 were voted without discussion.

The Field Marshal was wearing high-legged rubber boots and oilskins, but, being a good swimmer, he succeeded in keeping afloat until rescued with great difficulty by another competing yacht.

Sir Charles Seely, who was sailing his own yacht, was also swept overboard, but was rescued by means of a rope.

HARMSWORTH IS URGING CHINESE TO FINISH OPIUM

Says Country Is Even Exporting Drug Into Hongkong

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 3.—Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, Under-Secretary to the Foreign Office, replying to questions in the House of Commons today, said that papers were being prepared for submission to Parliament with regard to opium cultivation in China.

China, he said, undertook to put down cultivation as a condition on which the export of opium from India was stopped. At that time opium growing in China seemed to have been satisfactorily suppressed.

"I regret," Mr. Harmsworth continued, "that recent reports indicate a marked revival in certain provinces. There is evidence of the smuggling of Chinese opium into Hongkong on a considerable scale. There is no doubt that it is also smuggled into Shanghai.

"Strong protests have been repeatedly addressed to the Chinese Government, but they have thus far remained entirely unheeded.

"The League of Nations is now actively interesting itself in this matter."

Caruso Leaves Half Million, Many Mourn

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, Aug. 3.—The doctors who attended the late Cav. Enrico Caruso state that he died of an abscess between the diaphram and the liver. There was no question of purulent peritonitis, for which he had been operated on seven times in America. The operations, however, had not removed the seat of infection.

The newspapers state that the famous singer left a fortune of £500,000. His body will be embalmed, and will be given an impressive funeral. A constant stream of people is passing through the room where the body lies, to pay a last tribute.

Full Admiral May Command Gunboats Of U.S. In Yangtsze

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, August 1.—The Yangtze Valley with its uprisings, wars and mutinies is being seriously viewed by the United States and the news reached Peking today that this fall, America will have a full fledged admiral in command of the Yangtze fleet of gun boats.

The name of the Admiral has not yet been learned here but he will come out this fall on his own flagship which will be added to the fleet.

Decision of America to place an admiral in command, evidences keen apprension regarding the whole Yangtze Valley situation. America now has six gunboats on the river in addition to the flagship Wilmington. The admiral's flagship will be added to the force.

Empress Of Russia Ahead Of Schedule

Monteagle Of Same Line To Follow Arriving Here On Wednesday

The steamer Empress of Russia of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services, which is carrying a heavy mail from America, will arrive today about nine hours earlier than expected, according to advices received yesterday. The incoming tender from the Empress of Russia is due to arrive at the Customs Jetty at about 5 o'clock this afternoon. The tender with outbound passengers will leave the jetty for the ship at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The steamer will be dispatched for Hongkong by way of Manila at 11 o'clock Saturday morning.

Following the Empress of Russia the next steamer arriving from America will be the Monteagle, also of the Canadian Pacific Ocean services, which is due to arrive at the Shanghai and Hongkew Company's wharf about noon on Wednesday, August 10. The Monteagle is to sail for Hongkong direct at 7 o'clock the following morning.

Two China Mail steamers will sail with mails for America next week. The first to leave will be the Nile which sails on Monday. The China will follow next Friday. Both are bound for San Francisco.

HOW TO KEEP BABY WELL IN THE HEAT.

The hot months are the most dangerous to infants and young children. The complaints of this season, which are cholera infantum, colic, diarrhoea and dysentery, come on so quickly that often the little one is beyond aid almost before the parents realise he is ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly she should have means at hand for their immediate treatment.

No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as is Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy. These pleasant-tasting little Tablets regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe. They are a remedy for simple fever, indigestion, colic, constipation, diarrhoea and worms. They make teething easy, promote healthy appetite, restful sleep and regular development.

KOBE STRIKERS NOW FACE IRE OF THE GOVERNMENT

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 31.—According to the Asahi the Cabinet meeting on Friday discussed the labor situation at Kobe, on the report submitted by Mr. Tokonami, Home Minister. It was decided that, although the authorities would refrain from interference as long as the workers confine their movement within limits undetrimental to public peace and order, there were indications that some people were instigating the workers to lawlessness. As it appears that the situation is steadily growing worse, the Government has decided to adopt drastic measures in the future in dealing with it.

MAN BRINGING RUM ABOARD IS JUST SAT UPON

200-Pound Officer's Bulk Is Weighty Argument With Recalcitrant Seaman

G. A. Wand, who came to Shanghai as a member of the crew of the American Shipping Board steamer City of Spokane, committed the tactical error of trying to carry a quantity of intoxicating liquor aboard the ship in his hands and the outcome of this misdirected effort was that he was sentenced yesterday to serve thirty days in the American prison and pay a fine of Gold $25.

The particulars of Wand's misfortune were laid bare at a hearing before Commissioner F. J. Schuhl when Wand was charged with the specific offense of mauling F. J. Moran, First Officer of the ship.

Wand appeared on the ship's gangplank with a package of liquor under his arm Wednesday night, according to the testimony given. When his progress was halted by First Officer Moran his language took on a pale phosphorescent tint and swift action ensued.

First the package of liquor was smashed against the ship's side, then First Officer Moran received a wallop on the jaw which sent his spectacles flying and calm was restored only when Chief Officer Moran sat down on the ship's deck on top of the prostrate seaman.

JUST SAT ON HIM

"I didn't hit him," the First Officer explained shifting his 200-pound bulk in the witness chair. "I just sat on him a while and then he promised to be good."

Capt. Thomas Quinn, Master of the ship, which is operated by the Admiral Line, James A. Small, Second Officer and S. Din, watchman, all testified concerning the incident and Capt. W. I. Eisler, U. S. Shipping Board representative at this port, added a word saying there had been no end of trouble in upholding American dry laws and the drastic shipping board regulations regarding liquor on shipping board boats.

The defendant admitted that all these things were so and Commissioner Schuhl after making some reference to an excellent record of war service in France that Wand produced imposed the penalty.

PHILIPPINE BANK PAYING LOSSES TO LOCAL FIRMS

Ten Percent Already Given And Balance Will Be In Nine Months

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, Aug. 3.—The Philippine National Bank has settled the losses arising out of the exchange contracts of the Shanghai branch, totalling over $5,000,000, according to Mr. E. W. Wilson, the General Manager here, who said that 10 percent had already been paid, and that the balance would be paid in nine instalments.

The officials say that the Shanghai branch will be closed, but that an agency may possibly be retained.

Amplifying the information given in the foregoing dispatch, Mr. Manuel Concepcion, Assistant Manager of the Philippine National Bank who came to Shanghai recently when the crisis developed in the affairs of the Shanghai branch, said yesterday that no definite conclusion had yet been reached concerning the future activities of the bank in Shanghai. He intimated that it was unlikely that the bank would withdraw from Shanghai and expressed the view that it would continue to function here under a management whose powers would be curtailed and subject to direct authority from Manila.

Mr. Concepcion confirmed the report that the losses entailed by the bank here through exchange operations amounted to a total of approximately Gold $5,000,000 and he added that the debt is owed to various financial institutions and banks in Shanghai.

It is explained that as an outcome of an agreement that recently has been reached here with creditors the five million debt is to be paid off in semi-annual installments in a period of five years. Mr. Concepcion said that upwards Taels 900,000 already has been paid.

Copies of the agreement reached were sent to Manila for confirmation some time ago and by reason of Mr. Wilson's announcement, contained in the dispatch, it is taken for granted that the action taken in connection with the agreement has been approved and confirmed.

GOVT. H.C. OF'L. TO BE SIFTED WITH GEDDES AS HE'D

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 3.—Replying to Mr. J. R. Clynes in the House of Commons today, Sir Robert Horne, Chancellor of the Exchequer, stated that the Cabinet had concluded that it would be of great assistance to them to have the advice of a special committee of business men in dealing with the reduction of expenditure. Sir Eric Geddes, who was resigning his office as Minister of Transport almost immediately, would be chairman of the committee, the composition of which would be announced in due course.

The Cabinet, he added, would continue to decide questions of policy, but it would doubtless be within the purview of the committee to say what any particular policy would cost and the committee would report to the Cabinet. The question of the publication of the committee's reports would be considered.

NINTH CAVALRY TEAM PLAYS 3-GAME SERIES AT PEKING BEFORE TRIP TO SHANGHAI

Special Diamond Laid Out At Capital For Heavy Hitting Visitors; Shanghai Also Preparing For Games; Locals Play Wilmington Tomorrow

The Ninth Cavalry baseball team, which is due to open a six-game series here commencing on August 9, is now playing a special series of games in Peking with the team composed of Marines of the United States Legation Guard.

The Cavalrymen finished their schedule in the Tientsin baseball tournament last Sunday when they defeated the Tientsin Civilians by a score of 6-0. The Peking Marines had played in but two of the Tientsin tournament games, and had never been matched against the Manila champions.

The games at Peking are being played on the Peking Club Polo Field (French Glacis), where a new baseball diamond and field was laid out especially for the series. The Marines' field in the American Glacis was considered too short in right and center field for the heavy-hitting Cavalrymen. An admission to each of the three games of the series is being charged to all fans attending.

Shanghai is preparing also for the Ninth Cavalry team. Extra grandstands have been procured from the Race Club especially for the series, in anticipation of the heaviest attendance that has ever been had at a baseball game in this port. Some five to six hundred extra seats are being provided.

The new stands will be located at the ends of the regular bleachers, off first and third base. They are being made sunproof with mat-sheds and protected by wire screens in front like the Baseball Club grandstands. They will in fact be made a part of the regular stands.

The tickets for non-members to the Cavalry-Shanghai series and to the separate games were put on sale yesterday by Secretary Woodrow Wilson, of the Ball club. They are quoted at $5 for the series of six games, or at $2 for each game. They may be had at No. 1 Nanking road.

The management of the local club has figured that it will be necessary to sell about 500 series tickets to finance the bringing of the Cavalrymen here for the series, without exhausting the treasury and making it impossible to stage other interport games later. There is promise now of the Business Men's Club team at Dairen, which is composed of former Japanese university players, and also of the 15th Infantry team from Tientsin, which won two of its three games against the Ninth Cavalry, coming here for a series soon. It is hoped by seat sales to non-members to finance these games.

Tomorrow Shanghai will meet the team off the gunboat Wilmington, in what might be the last game with that team this season. It is understood the Wilmington sails within the next few days, not to return until the season is over. The Wilmington men have done much to entertain Shanghai fans during their stay here, and are sure of a welcome and a kind farewell at their last appearance tomorrow. Sunday Shanghai meets the Socony team of the Hong League.

Aussies Dismiss Lancashire For 100

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 3.—Rain delayed the start until 2.30 p.m. in the match between the Australians and Lancashire at Liverpool today. Sunny weather prevailed however, and there was an attendance of some 5,000 spectators. Armstrong won the toss and put Lancashire in to bat on a soft and easy wicket. The Lancashire team were dismissed for 100, Hallows being top scorer with 37 runs. McDonald took eight wickets for 62.

The Australians made 123 for one wicket before close of play, Bardsley hitting up 59, not out.

In a first class match played today at the Oval, Surrey led on the first innings in a drawn match versus Nottinghamshire.

SAYS "BUGS" Baer:

OLDTIMERS IN FOG OF ROMANCE

The Hour Glass Is A Telescope That Sees Only The Glamour Of The Past

BY "BUGS" BAER

The sporting world is stove leagueing over the present day champs versus the old-timers. Baseball, football, fighting and any sport that calls for a nimble alibi, Boosters of modern athletes can't get far with an old-timer in a chin fathering contest.

The old boys have mythology, history, romance and cobwebs on their side. You've got to start by conceding 'em the victory and working up to the climax from there. Digging into the past is like looking at a boat in the fog. You see a beautiful silhouette, but you can't tell whether she is a rust-streaked hulk or a neat craft

George Washington started life with an inheritance of warts on his face and finished with them. But you see none of George's warts in his present portraits This is strange. While time is supposed to heal everything there is no record of it using an electric needle. It's the fog of time that obscures those warts, same as it hides the athletic imperfections of the old-timers and makes 'em grow better each day.

More power to 'em. But that is no reason why due credit shouldn't be dished forth to the present champs. Jim Plunkett and Billy Murray are two of the great boosters for the old-timers. After arguing two days and two nights with Jim and Billy, it is possible to make 'em admit that Leonard and Dempsey would have had a chance with the third-string battlers of that time.

Plunk is a bug on the fighters, while Bill runs to all kinds of big gate athletics. Neither one seems to get much steamed up about the ancient quoit throwers. Possibly because the archives were destroyed when the English burned Washington. Plunkett is right about one thing. He claims that Leonard hasn't got the sharpened competition that Gans, McGovern and the other boys had in Dal Hawkins, Erne, Nelson, Britt, and so forth and out. Very correct. But the old-timers didn't stand ears and Adam's apple over their competitors like Dempsey and Leonard do over their claimants.

Whether Dempsey could have flattened Fitz, Jeff, Sullivan, Corbett, Sharkey and the other nose crackers is a hoss of a different gait. You can't prove it by comparing calendars, which is the only way we have left.

The old champs used to come out in crops like oranges. Now, they burst forth like another California fruit. One thing is certain. And that is the old prize ring had more good men in bunches than the present day. But when they start buzzing that Dempsey and Leonard would have only been towel swingers in an 1895 corner they are wronger than the gasoline measuring machine in a Lincoln Highway garage.

Same with ballplayers. But it's no use arguing, because the press agent for the old-timers have history and romance on their side. And the bird who would argue more than six hours against that combination would put the torch to the orphan asylum, strangle canaries and raise the rent on a poorhouse.

INDICTED BALL PLAYERS HELD NOT GUILTY

Verdict Exonerating Seven White Sox Men Cheered By Waiting Crowd

(Reuter's Service)

Chicago, August 3.—Seven professional baseball players who were alleged to have accepted bribes from gamblers to lose certain games in 1919's series of baseball matches for the championship of the world, and two men who were charged with giving such bribes have been found not guilty after a trial lasting six weeks. The accused were enthusiastically cheered by a crowd after the announcement of the verdict.

There were eight members of the world's champions Chicago White Sox and two former major league players, together with two alleged gamblers mentioned in the indictment of March 27, 1920 which followed the grand jury investigation into the alleged throwing of the 1919 world's series. The men were: Eddie Cicotte, pitcher; Claude Williams, pitcher; Joe Jackson, left field; Happy Felsch, center field; Chick Gandil, first baseman; Swede Risberg, shortstop; Buck Weaver, third base; Fred McMullin, utility man; Hal Chase and Bill Burns, former Major leaguers, and Rachel Brown and Joseph J. Sullivan, alleged gamblers.

Cicotte, Williams and Jackson were the only men to go before the Grand Jury. The trial was held before Judge Hugo Friend, one of the younger judges and a noted Western Conference athlete ten years ago.

Sporting Editor's Letter Box

Sporting Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir: I am extremely surprised by the attitude assumed by the writer of the letter signed A. W. in regard to the sailors at the Sunday game between Shanghai and the Wilmington.

The Wilmington's team are a good, clean bunch of baseball players to whom the Shanghai Team and the Shanghai Baseball Fans are indebted for several very interesting games. Their play has been clean, their behavior excellent and they have at all times acted in a perfectly gentlemanly and sportsmanlike manner.

Baiting and roasting an umpire is permissible from the stands, also from the coaching boxes if the players can get away with it. Mr. Umps expects it when he condescends to officiate, and of course it is optional with him to exercise his rights to bench a player who offends; it is all a part of the good old game of baseball.

In this especial case the Umpire smiled and to all appearances enjoyed the incident as much as the players of both teams and the fans did. No offensive language was used at any time and as a matter of fact I cannot recall a single instance where either sailor players or rooters have used objectionable language at the ball grounds.

The fans and the players keenly enjoy the sailor rooting and have come to look upon it as a part of the game, invariably there is a lively exchange of witty remarks, and the boys as a rule always have something fresh and breezy in the line of retorts to bring a hearty laugh from players and spectators.

Why all this to do about nothing? Probably the heat, which was excessive on Sunday afternoon got the best of A. W., and he was inclined to be peevish, at any rate I doubt if there is a single baseball fan in Shanghai who will agree with the sentiment expressed in the letter signed A. W.

OLD PLAYER AND FAN.
Shanghai, Aug. 3, 1921.

Sporting Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir.—Being a true fan, and a lover of baseball whether played by sailors, Japanese, or our beloved Shanghai team, and in the interest of the sport, I feel sure that the letter written by A. W. in your columns of August 2, is a bit unfair. The writer of that article should, or ought to know, if he has any baseball sense, that the remarks that are made during the game, whether roasting the Umpire, or a bad play on a player's part, is all forgotten after the game.

I was one of the fans at the game last Sunday, and I for one did not think the sailors disgusting. On the contrary I thought them amusing. After all's said and done, what would a baseball game be like if there were no rooters? We know it's an entirely different game to cricket where one is used to quiet remarks such as "Well Played," "Jolly Good Catch," etc. Good natured noise and baseball goes together, and I am positively sure that the fans of either sex would be sorry to hear that the sailor boys took offence at the article written by A. W.

Being an admirer of the Navy boys and one who knows and has a great many personal friends among them, I feel sure they will not take offence, but will ignore what I may term a hasty ill-timed article.

Trusting you will find space in your columns for the above. I am, Yours respectfully,

LOYAL FAN.
Shanghai, August 3, 1921.

Sporting Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir.—In re Mr. Montgomery's letter appearing in your letter box of this morning's issue, it is to be assumed that the Shanghai Baseball Club has absolute confidence in the integrity of the 9th

YOUNG VISITORS SEE WARSHIP IN CHEFOO HARBOR

American Sailors Let Kiddies Handle Big Guns While Ward Room Feeds Them

(China Press Correspondence)

Chefoo, July 30.—The children in Chefoo had a great treat this afternoon when they were taken out to the U. S. S. Huron in the launches of the ship and allowed to roam all over the warship. It was a grand sight to see the young people start off from the Kaiping Jetty. There must have been nearly two hundred of them, for they filled three big launches. At 2:45 p.m. all were on the big warship and soon small figures in white could be seen all over her.

The youngest kiddies were taken round by the officers and men, others were allowed to wander round by themselves and they had grand fun in being allowed to touch and handle the guns. Refreshments were served and here again the kiddies had a fine time. Cakes and lemonade were served out to them in the ward room and ample justice was done. The Admiral was on board and when he left about 4:30 and was piped down the side in true man-of-war fashion, the young people were given an idea of the respect paid to the man who occupies such a high naval position.

The last hour of the time on the ship was occupied in listening to the band. Bands in Chefoo are sufficiently rare to afford intense enjoyment to the young people when they are heard. Even the big guns and the engine room lost their attraction when the Huron's band struck up. The young people left in the ship's launches at 5 and the hearty cheers which they gave as they left the side of the big vessel demonstrated their full appreciation of what must have been to them a most happy visit.

TABLET IS UNVEILED

The week has been a big one in the history of the China Inland Mission Schools. Last Sunday morning at a memorable service in the assembly room the handsome brass tablet was unveiled by the wife of the honored principal in the presence of a large congregation. The large room and three side rooms were literally packed. The service itself to commemorate the unveiling of the tablet was most impressive, while the two addresses delivered were appropriate and telling. The tablet hangs on the wall of the schoolroom and contains the names of the thirty-four who laid down their lives in the Great War.

Members of the faculty participated in the service and after the wife of the principal had unveiled the memorial, Mrs. Murray, the wife of a former principal, laid a wreath beneath it. The unveiling portion of the service was most impressive, the large congregation remaining on their feet while it was done and also while the prayer for the bereaved was offered.

On Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons there were the closing exercises of the boys' school and the girls' school respectively. The audiences were large, too large in fact for the assembly room of the girls' school, and there had to be an overflow on to the wide verandahs. At the girls' school the piano playing, the singing and the recitations were delightful while the drill at the close on the tennis courts was extremely pretty and captivating.

The following afternoon the boys had their graduating exercises. These were held in the open air in the quadrangle. The Rev. Paul Abbott of the American Presbyterian Mission was the genial chairman. His remarks to the students were a feature of the afternoon. Then followed the drill, a really remarkable exhibition which inspired the audience. The entertainments were even better than those of previous years.

WASHINGTON ASKS NO PRIOR CONFABS TO MUDDLE PLAN

Wants To Start Fair And Above Board In Discussion Of Disarmament

French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, August 3.—A Washington despatch states that all the Powers invited to the Disarmament Conference are in agreement that this should take place at Washington early in November, and it is hoped that it will be possible for its labors to begin on the 11th.

According to the Times, there is confirmation of the statement that the United States is opposed to a preliminary conference on matters related to the Pacific, to be attended by representatives of Great Britain, Japan and the United States, and the Prime Ministers of Canada and New Zealand.

The United States has expressed its view that the diplomatic representatives at the Conference should represent the Dominions as well as the London Government.

According to the Morning Post, China and Japan are increasingly disposed to settle their differences without reference to the Washington Conference.

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 3.—In the House of Commons today at question-time, Mr. Austen Chamberlain stated that the date of the Washington Conference had not yet been fixed. No question of postponing it had been raised. The British representatives had not yet been chosen.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 2.—Numerous bodies throughout China, believing that Japan's policy is to prevent a wide discussion of Far Eastern questions at the Washington Conference, have telegraphed to the Central Government protesting against the Japanese policy and urging the Government to press for discussion of all questions of vital interest to China which have an international bearing.

Ningpo Residents Plan Two Large Hospitals Here

Ningpo residents, following the success of the erection of a palatial association building on Lloyd Road, are now conducting a financial drive to establish a free hospital for their fellow-countrymen in Shanghai. Already $50,000 have been secured and elaborate plans have been formulated for the undertaking. The goal is $100,000.

The residential house at the Sing Shon Lee, Frenchtown, will be demolished and a modern Chinese hospital, containing over 50 rooms and wards for the sick will be constructed. Both Chinese medical and surgical departments will be maintained at this place.

Plans are also being formulated to erect a foreign style hospital on Range Road, occupying some 50 mow of land. It is expected to start work on this project next year.

Man Who Leaped To Death Off Train May Be Hotel Murderer

A man who leaped from a moving Shanghai-Nanking Railway train and was drowned in a creek near Vong Ding station Tuesday may have been the murderer of the girl whose body was found in a room at the Great Eastern Hotel, the local authorities think and an investigation is being made.

According to a report made to the head offices of the railway the train was crossing the bridge over the creek at full speed when the man jumped from one of the second class carriages. The train could not be stopped in time to effect a rescue. Vong Ding is only a short distance from Shanghai.

WOMAN'S BODY IS FOUND; CORD OF SILK KILLED HER

Japanese Coffining Remains When Police Reach The Scene Of Crime

Shanghai has another murder mystery to puzzle over, the victim this time being a young Japanese woman who had evidently been strangled and whose body was found Wednesday afternoon lying in a stretch of vacant ground on Scott Road, outside the Settlement boundary.

The matter of the body's discovery only became known to local authorities yesterday afternoon when a Sikh sergeant attached to North Szechuen Road station heard some Chinese talking about it on the street and reported the fact to the station. Investigation then disclosed the facts regarding the finding of the body and the fact that the Japanese Consular authorities had been notified.

By the time the Municipal investigators could get in touch with the latter they found that the body had been already placed in a coffin and was about to be removed for burial.

It is supposed that the woman, who was about 25 years of age, was strangled with a silk cord. It is learned that she previously had been married to a man in Japan, but had been divorced and came to Shanghai about May 1, going to live at the Kudo Garage, on Scott Road. About July 1 she was married to a Japanese sailor employed on one of the local boats, but there were family differences almost immediately and the two separated, the woman returning to the garage to live on July 29.

The victim was last seen alive Tuesday afternoon.

"Il Trovatore" A Triumph

The triumph of the season in Shanghai was scored last night when the Russian Opera company sang Verdi's "Il Trovatore" to a packed house at the Lyceum theater.

The Misere aria was splendidly rendered with Miss Mashir, as Leonora, before the dungeon walls, and the prisoner chorus behind the scenes. The tenor part, Manrio, made famous by Caruso, was sung by Mr. Svetloff, who delighted the audience with his singing from the tower. Miss Burskaya, as Azucena, sang with her usual excellence of tone quality the beautiful aria, Home to Our Mountains.

The grand farewell program will be given tomorrow night, the first act of "La Boheme," with Miss Mashir as Mimi, and Mr. Danilof as Rudolph, the second act of "Mignon," and a ballet.

The company will sail for Japan on Sunday.

Cavalry Baseball Team, not only as a team but as individual players, or else they would not be invited to come to Shanghai to play this series.

The Shanghai Club has undertaken to care for these players while in Shanghai and the public can rest assured that they will be lodged under proper conditions free from the temptations and evils which abound in the so called Paris of the East.

In view of the sentiment expressed by Mr. Montgomery in connection with the 9th Cavalrymen's coming visit, it would appear in order for Mr. Montgomery to organize a committee to provide pastime and amusement for these boys between games.

The majority of the Shanghai players are ex-Service men having served either as enlisted men or officers both in the Army and Navy and all of them are native born Americans; therefore, Mr. Montgomery and the public at large can rest assured that no scandal will be attached to Uncle Sam's Boys.

The writer has known the 9th U. S. Cavalry for over 20 years and during that period the regiment has had an enviable record for good, clean sportsmanship, with the one exception, that of the episode of 1918 which occurred at Shanghai and was caused by the acts of a minority of the team.

It is to be regretted that this episode has been resurrected. It can serve no other purpose than to recall an incident which we would all much rather forget. The 9th Cavalry will play good ball. So will Shanghai. It will be a good series and we hope to see Shanghai win.

Makes Startling Charges In Italian Legation Case

letter at Shanghai. She cabled back she could not wait so long.

From Singapore, where she cabled Captain Pitri to meet her in Shanghai, on up the coast Signora Cioci says she met a series of attempts to dissuade her from visiting Peking. At each port to call Italian consular officials would examine her passport, and finding it in order would tell her orders had come from the Italian Minister at Peking not to let her pass.

In Shanghai she was met by a Mr. Virgona, right hand man of Captain Pitri, who conducted her to the Burlington Hotel, and told her the captain was very ill in Peking. Visiting the Italian consul here, Signora Cioci was shown a deposition made out against her by Captain Pitri, which she declared to be a fabrication of falsehood. She then showed the consul all the letters and telegrams she had received from Captain Pitri, which contained evidence contrary to the statement made by the captain. The consul advised her to consult a lawyer at once.

Captain Ferrajolo, questioned last night, stated that he had interviewed Signora Cioci here on June 4, but declined to comment further on the matter.

URGED NOT TO PROCEED

She stated that Commander Pardo whom she met here urged her not to go to Peking as the Captain would not receive her. She said that she would go to the Minister and report what had happened in Shanghai and Hongkong and that she had only come to take the Captain back home with her. He then pleaded with her, she declares, "for the sake of the whole Italian colony" not to go to Peking. However, she took the train that same day. Her statement from this point is as follows:

"I arrived in Peking on June 5 after 7 p.m. and was met at the Station by Capt. Pitri's boy, who handed me a letter in which he told me that by order of his Doctor he had gone to Shanhaikwan and if I wanted to see him, I should go there. I took a room at the Grand Hotel des Wagons-Lits and asked the way to the Italian Legation, but was told that it was already too late to go to the Lagation. I went there all the same and enquired of the guard if Capt. Pitri was at home and was told that he had left for Shanhaikwan. I asked if the Minister was at home and was told that his hours for receiving people were from 10 to 12 in the morning.

"The next morning I went to the Legation at 10 o'clock and was told that the Minister had not yet arrived. I told the N. C. Officer, Cospedini by name, that I wanted to see Capt. Pitri in the presence of the Minister and that if the Captain was really in Shanhaikwan, I would ask the Minister to send for him. He seemed to be very much embarrassed and said that it would be much better for me to go to Shanhaikwan and talk things over with the Captain. When I told him that I did not know the place nor the hours of the train, he said that he would take me to the Station and book a compartment for me. He came to fetch me at the Hotel a little before 8 p.m. and we went to the Station, where I found out that nothing had been reserved for me. I gave him $20.00 which was all I had on me in Mexican currency and he sent the Legation Postman to fetch me a ticket, but he never returned and the train moved out.

HAD TO STAND

"There was not a single seat free on the train and I was left standing in the Restaurant Car with all the seats and even the tables taken by Chinese soldiers. The conductor came for the ticket and I spoke to him in Italian and French but he could not understand. At last a gentleman who spoke French could be found and with his aid I was able to obtain a ticket for which I paid in sterling. The gentleman had a Chinese give up his seat and asked me to sit down. After some time I was told that a berth had been vacated for me which I was very glad to take as I was then very tired.

SPENDS NIGHT IN OPEN

"When the train arrived in Shanhaikwan I saw Commander Pardo rush out of the station. I asked an Italian sailor if he knew Capt. Pitri and was told he did not. I asked him if he knew Comm. Pardo and the sailor told me that he had just left the station. I took a coolie who helped me to a Chinese hotel, where I was told that Capt. Pitri was staying at the Barracks.

"A Chinese volunteered to take me to the Barracks, where I found Capt. Pitri, Commander Pardo and Mr. Zotti in a small house. I told the Captain what I thought of his conduct and he ordered me out of the Barracks. I told him that I would wait outside for him as I wanted him to go to the Minister with me. I waited in vain for many long hours and passed the night in the open.

"I left Shanhaikwan on the morning of the 9th and was back in Peking at about 8:30 p.m. I returned to my room at the Wagons-Lits and a little later the N. C. Officer Cospedini called and told me that he had been waiting at the station for a long time and had missed my arrival. He asked me if I was going to see the Minister next morning and I told him that I considered the whole lot of them a lot of traitors and therefore I would not tell anybody what I was going to do, whereupon he left again.

TELLS OF ATTACK

"A little after 10 o'clock somebody knocked at my door repeatedly and at my enquiry said it was a friend who wanted to speak to me. I answered that I had no friends and that there must be a mistake in the number of the door. The person outside then said that she was the wife of the Italian Minister, Marquise Durazzo. I said I was sorry but as I had already retired for the night I was not in a position to receive her. But she was most insistent and after having put on a traveling coat, I opened the door.

"A very long conversation ensued in which naturally the Captain was mentioned. I told her that I would see the Minister, whereupon she said that the Minister knew all about it and that the Minister, Commander Pardo and Capt. Pitri knew that she was actually with me. As we talked rather loudly a lady, who was staying in a room nearby, came to the door and requested us not to make so much noise. The Marquise spoke to the lady through the half opened door and I noticed that she locked the door when she finished with the lady She then asked me where I kept the Captain's correspondence and I told her in the wardrobe. She asked me to let her see it and I consented to show her something. She said that a lot of people were talking about her and that I was one of those who believed such talk. I told her that I only believed things I could see with my own eyes.

"I then went to the wardrobe where all the letters were kept in a small handbag, and I had hardly touched the bag, which was at the bottom of the wardrobe, when I received a number of heavy blows on my head. I did not know where the blows came from till I turned my head and saw the Marquise standing behind me, hitting me all the time with something black and heavy and holding me by the neck with one hand. I shouted:

"'Marquise, if you want the letters you can have them.' She then said something which I will only tell the Court in Ancona.

BOTH WRISTS CUT

"I shouted for help and fainted, but came back to my senses when she cut my right wrist first and then the left. As I was already half dead I could not very well see the weapon she used. I could only see something bright and shiny. I also saw her passing with the small bag in her hands and thought that she had taken it away with her, but found out a few days later that she had left it on the chest of drawers at the other end of the room. I noticed how she turned off the electric light prior to unlocking the door and after she had made sure that nobody was in the corridor outside, she left hurriedly.

"I gathered all my strength and managed to open the door and shout: 'Boy! Boy!' and then I fell in the corridor outside my room. I do not know how long I was lying there till I was found by the manager of the Hotel and carried to a nearby bathroom, where I was bandaged up by Dr. Chambers and the manager and later on sent to the Rockefeller Hospital. What then happened can be seen from the doctor's certificate.

VISITED IN HOSPITAL

"The first person who came to see me in the Hospital was the Italian Consul, Count Nani de Mocenigo, who came to see me on June 10 at 4 p.m. He requested me to tell him everything and I noticed that he did not take any notes. I had been given the holy sacraments two hours before the Consul arrived as the doctor then had little hope of saving my life.

"The next day at about 10 a.m. Dr. Di Giura came to see me, saying that he had brought with him a person dear to me. I said: 'Who is it? Alfredo? (Capt. Pitri). He then said: 'I will ask him to come in but you must be very quiet, otherwise the doctor will send us away.'

CONFESSION OF "SUICIDE"

"They both then knelt down by the bedside and implored my mercy on the Marquise, Dr. Di Giura asking me to be merciful to the children (Durazzo's) and the Captain's family, whom I loved. The same thing was repeated by the Captain. I asked what they wanted me to do and they said that I should make a declaration, saying that I had tried to commit suicide.

"I said: 'I never will to save the friend of Captain Pitri.' They both insisted the Captain crying like a child saying that he would take me back to Italy and marry me as soon as possible. The doctor saying that I had everything favorable in my hands, I answered that I would ask the Consul if he wanted me to do it, if not, I would not do it. They said that they would come back again for the answer after I had seen the Consul.

AGREES TO CONFESSION

"Soon after that the Consul arrived with the Chancellor and I told the Consul that I had to speak to him in private, whereupon the Chancellor left the room. I told him what Dr. di Giura and the Captain asked me to do and said: 'If you want me to do it, I will oblige them.' The Consul then told me that I could save the Captain and still get justice from the others. He left with the promise to request the Captain to come and get the answer, and said that he would come back again in the afternoon. Nobody came and at 7:30 p.m. I asked the nurse to ring up the Italian Legation and ask the Consul to come round.

"After some time Padre Leonetti arrived asking if I had sent for him. I told him that I had sent for the Consul and I told him everything they asked me to do in the morning and said that I wanted justice and no more nonsense. I then made to Padre Leonetti the same declaration I had in the first instance made to the Consul and when we were talking together the Consul arrived. I repeated to him that I wanted justice and nothing else. He then said: 'Shall I call the witnesses for your deposition?' I said: 'Yes, at once, everybody has to know the truth.' He left for a moment and came back again with the Captain and a gentleman I did not know. When I saw the Captain I asked the Consul: 'Are these the witnesses you called?' I then asked the Captain why he had not come back in the morning, whereupon he said that the Consul had not wanted him to come. I asked who the other gentleman was and the Captain said it was the Italian Minister.

QUESTIONED BY MINISTER

"The Consul then requested me to tell the Minister all about the crime. I started and after sometime the Minister interrupted me, asking if I had insulted his wife in the course of our interview on the 9th. I told him no, that we talked together for a long time, sometimes perhaps a little loud, but never angry. When I finished with the story, he told me that he could not believe it, as he had studied his wife for the last 12 years. I said: 'Well, if you do not believe me, there are several witnesses who saw and heard everything' which was confirmed by the Consul. The Minister then asked me what the Captain had promised me in the morning for the other declaration. I said: 'Please ask him yourself.' The Captain then said: 'I maintain my promise if she confirms the declaration she made to me this morning.' I asked: 'What do you mean—my declaration of this morning? You know very well that I have never made any declaration to you.'

"He then said: 'You told me this morning that when the Marquise came to see you on the 9th you told her that as you could not see the Captain any more you would kill yourself and you started to run against the bedstead, the table and everything else with your head, and you cut your wrists with a piece of glass from a broken bottle.'

ORDERS PITRI OUT

"I then sat up in my bed and told the Captain in proper language what I thought of all his villainy and ordered him out of the room. He left the room and I told the Minister all that Doctor di Giura and the Captain has requested me to do in the morning. The Minister called Pitri in again who again repeated what he had said before, and I again requested him in the same language to get out of my sight. The Minister then said: 'Pitri vuole che si dice cosi.' To which I said: 'Va bene, if it is necessary to say so, I will say it for the benefit of the children, the Minister, the Captain's family, and himself but I have not said it before.'

"The Minister then addressed the Captain: 'As you have been with this lady for eight years, will you stay with her till the end of your life?' The Captain said 'Yes.' The Minister then said: 'You know very well that she cannot be married to you.' He replied that he had found out only this morning that I was already married. I said: 'That is not true because I told Commander Pardo in Shanhaikwan and he must have told you.'

"Pitri repeated that he only learned of it this morning. The Minister then asked if the Captain's family approved of the union, to which he replied that his family liked me very much. The Minister then asked the Captain if he would like to take me home. He said: 'Yes, as soon as she is able to travel.' The Minister then said: 'Will you stay with her from now and not leave her again?' and the Captain replied in the affirmative. The Minister, the Consul and Padre Leonetti then left, the Minister saying: 'We will see each other again.'

FURTHER INTERCESSIONS

"The next day, June 12, Madame de Luca came to see me in the afternoon; she knew me from the first journey I made to Peking, as we had travelled on the same boat. She talked to me about the crime and I told her how everything happened. She said that she already knew but that she did not want to know. She then asked me the same thing that Dr. di Giura and Capt. Pitri had asked me to do the previous day. I told her that what I had to say was already said, whereupon she replied that I had treated the Captain in such a way in front of the Minister that the latter did not believe that I would make the statement. She then offered to call the Consul and to return with him.

"The Consul arrived a little later with the Chancellor but without Madame de Luca. He told me that he had come to take down my declaration. I told him to put down the same thing that the Captain had given him already, as I did not want to say something different. The Consul then told me that he did not want to do this, but I insisted that I would not do it in a different way. The Consul left the room for a moment to consult the Captain outside and when he came back he repeated the words of the Captain's declaration made in the Minister's presence. Everything was put in writing and signed by two witnesses. They then left the Hospital.

"The next day the Doctor objected to the continual presence of Captain Pitri in the room and the Captain made arrangements to go to his house in the Legation for the night. He left me at about 8:30 p.m. but before he left he wrote the true declaration."

Signora Cioci said last night that when Captain Pitri left her she knew he was going to commit suicide. If she had been able to reach a telephone, she said, or to make someone at the hospital understand her—she speaks no English—she would have informed the Legation of his intent.

PITRI'S LAST WORD

But before the Captain left he left with her the following statement, a photographic copy of which, in Italian, was furnished to the press:

Peking, June 13, 1921.

Upon my word of honor as an officer and on the honor of my family, I swear that the statement made by Madame Maria Cioci in the second instance was made only at my request, because the true circumstances as happened in fact and which brought to her being wounded, were those declared by her in her first statement to the Italian Consul of Tientsin, to the Minister, to Padre Leonetti and to all those who heard her before her latter statement, which was made only out of her love for me.

(Signed)' ALFREDO PITRI.

The report of Dr. Adnair S. Taylor, of Peking Medical College, described in detail Signora Cioci's wounds. Some 76 sutures were required for the scalp wounds. In conclusion the report states:

"From the appearance of the wounds and their location and extent, in my opinion it is certain that they were not self-inflicted. The day after the injury, I asked the patient to write her name. This she was unable to do with her left hand. The fact that the right hand of the patient was entirely incapacitated by the injuries proves to my mind that they were not self-inflicted."

CAN'T GIVE FOOD WILL BOOM DRUGS IS GERMAN OFFER

U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Washington, August 3.—Mr. Herbert Hoover as Secretary of the American Relief Administration, has cabled to Mr. Walter Lyon Brown, Director of the American Relief Administration in London, instructing him to proceed to Riga and negotiate with the Russian Soviet Government for the preparation of food relief work in Russia.

(Reuter's Service)

Riga, August 2.—An international committee has been organised here to relieve the starving people in Russia.

GERMANS OFFER DRUGS

Berlin, August 4.—The committee formed to consider Russia's request for assistance has decided that Germany is not in a position to supply foodstuffs, but is willing to devote her highly developed pharmaceutical industry to prevent the spread of disease. For the present, it has been decided to despatch five doctors and medical supplies.

USE RED CROSS

Paris, Aug. 3.—The Government has decided to despatch relief supplies to famine-stricken Russia through the Red Cross and similar organisations. This decision does not affect its refusal to recognise the Soviet Government.

Warsaw, Aug. 3.—A relief committee has been formed here to give help to Russia.

Ape's Brain Just Like Man's But Is Only Half As Big

Cincinnati, June 25.—Students at the University of Cincinnati Medical College held an unusual clinic, with the body of Tarzan, the educated chimpanzee, who died of pneumonia, as the object of their attention.

Anatomical slides of the animal's brain will be made and sent to every medical college in the United States.

The doctors said Tarzan's brain showed every convulution and every attribute of the human brain except size. Its weight was about half that of the human brain.

MARCONI AIMS TO BRIDGE OCEAN BY WIRELESS PHONE

Will Attempt To Reduce Radio Telephoning To Practical Commercial Stage

London, June 25.—"I expect eventually to bridge the Atlantic with wireless telephony. When New York talks to London it will be in this manner and not by telephony through a cable, the cost of laying which would be prohibitive."

This statement was made by Senator Marconi in a discussion with a Universal Service representative of Colonel Carty's demonstration of cable and wireless telephony between Havana, Cuba and Catalina, off California.

Mr. Marconi was not much impressed with the practical value of Colonel Carty's achievement, inasmuch as the cost of maintaining land and subsea wires over areas stretching for thousands of miles is a prohibitive factor. At the same time he admitted that long distance wireless telephony had not advanced to a practical commercial stage.

"We have had wireless talks between London and Rome, London and Geneva and other points," he added, "and we have even gotten a few words across the Atlantic; but we cannot work in a practical way across long sea distances. There are certain disturbances of the waves in space the cause of which has not yet been determined.

NEW HOTEL OPENS IN MOKANSHAN

Mr. C. P. Yin And Mrs. H. C. Mei Participate At The Dedication Ceremony

(China Press Correspondence)

Mokanshan, Aug. 1.—The authorities of the Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo Railway formally opened its new hotel here Saturday. The new building which had been in course of erection for nearly a year can now accommodate a large number of guests without using the several smaller houses and cottages which in the last two years have been employed by the railway as a neucleus of a hostel.

The new hotel is a spacious building of four stories, with a large dining hall, roomy parlors, and an amusement roof garden and 40 bed rooms with baths attached fitted with electric light and fans.

The management gave a dinner in celebration of the occasion at which was present the Magistrate at Mokanshan and the Chief of Police together with the railway officials and a number of prominent residents and householders at the summer resort including Mr. C. P. Yin, Managing-Director of the Railway, Messrs. Middleton, Ridgeway, Richardson, and Edward Young, and Dr. P. H. Lo, with their wives, the former managing director, Mr. Chung Mun-yew, Mrs. H. C. Mei, wife of the Shanghai lawyer and Mrs. Quo Tai-chi, wife of ex-President Li Yuan-hung's private secretary, and her sister who are staying with Mrs. Mei.

Mr. Yin made a very appropriate speech on the development of the railway's policy to popularise China's scenic beauties by extension of branch lines from the main trunk lines, and stated that in a few years he hoped a branch could be extended to the foot of the mountain so that the resort could be made within half a day of Shanghai. He then called on Mrs. Mei, a school friend when Mr. Yin was attending the University of California, to say a few words, or perhaps to sing.

Mrs. Mei told the diners what remarkable progress Mr. Yin had made in life, especially since he returned to China and joined the Ministry of Communications, and latterly of his successes as managing director of the Shanghai's joint railway lines, which gratified not only herself as an old friend but all the younger generation of China's public men, and which demonstrated that the students educated abroad and returned to China are slowly but effectively making good all round to the great benefit of the country. Mrs Mei also sang two favored songs and was each time encored.

A dance concluded the program. The official party returned to Shanghai today.

SHOEMAKERS STRIKE

Following differences with the shoe shop proprietors' guild the Chinese shoemakers in Shanghai have gone on strike. The split came following a move by the workers to form a guild of their own. The proprietors have issued a warning that unless the men return to work they will bring in shoemakers from other ports, but the strikers state that they are determined to hold out.

Shanghai College Builds New Plant For Science

Three new buildings are going up and extensive repairs and reconstruction are being made at Shanghai College during the vacation, in order to get ready for the fall term, which will open with entrance examinations on September 9 and 10. The number of new students already registered is much larger than usual, and as accommodations are limited the competition for places will be keen.

Very encouraging news has been received from President White from America, concerning the settlement of various problems of the college as well as concerning re-enforcement for the professorial staff and additional funds for buildings and equipment. Dr. White expects to return on the Empress of Asia, arriving September 2. On the same ship will be Doctor Ernest D. Burton, of the University of Chicago, who heads an authoritative commission from America that is coming to investigate educational conditions in China. Also Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr. and his party, who are going to the dedication of the new Medical School buildings in Peking.

DR. HUNTLEY RETURNING

The steamers Wenatchee, Empress of Russia, and others, will bring during September several of the regular staff of Shanghai College. Dr. Huntley will resume his duties as college physician and lecturer on hygiene and sanitation. He it was that secured such large gifts for the College while he was in America, particularly $50,000 for the Junior Academy building, which was put up last year, and $100,000 for the Woman's Building.

Professor D. H. Kulp II, who has been teaching in Brown University, as exchange professor in place of Dr. Dealey, is returning to his work in the department of sociology, and to the work at the Yangtszepoo Social Center, bringing new ideas and some financial backing from the Alumni of Brown University. Professor Victor Hanson, who has been doing graduate work in political science and also teaching that subject in the University of Chicago, will return in September to teach political science and economics at Shanghai College.

Professor John B. Hipps has just finished a year at Columbia University and will return in September with his bride, formerly Miss Lydia Brown, of Ginling College. Cards announcing their marriage have been received here, with invitations to meet them "At Home after September 15." Prof. Hipps will resume his work in Old Testament in the Seminary and Mrs. Hipps will be engaged in the music department.

Several new professors and teachers are under appointment, including Mr. and Mrs. Wiley from the Southern Baptist Board, for the department of sociology; two new English teachers, and a man for the department of business administration. Miss White, formerly of Nanking University, will also join the staff of Shanghai College in September.

CHINESE DEPARTMENT

A large number of well qualified Chinese teachers have been engaged, especially in the mathematics, science and Chinese departments. Under the efficient direction of Doctor C. C. Chen, the department of Chinese language and literature has taken on a new lease of life during the year, and promises still greater improvements during the coming term. In addition to the old trustworthy men, such as Professor Ling and others, the college has been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. W. C. Wu, a teacher of great ability, who has identified himself with the new movements in China, especially in the matter of literary style and composition. He is an author and contributor to Chinese newspapers and magazines. A member of last year's graduating class, Dju Yung-chwang, whose name was called off three or four times at the commencement exercises, each time to receive large prizes in the various departments of Chinese learning, will join the teaching staff. There will be a reorganisation of the classes in Chinese, to make them correspond more nearly with the classes in other subjects; and there will be special normal instruction in methods of teaching Chinese, and occasional conferences on the subject in charge of the Education Department of the College.

No Medals For The Home Worker Says British War Head

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 3.—Mr. Gideon Murray, Coalition Unionist, today declared in the House of Commons that members of the Defence Forces of Crown Colonies and Protectorates which had not been defined officially as theaters of war had expressed considerable dissatisfaction at the non-award of the war medal, while the Defence Forces in India during the war had already received medals.

Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, Minister of War, said that, as it had been decided that, with certain specified exceptions, the war medal should not be granted for home-service in the United Kingdom, it was obviously inequitable to grant what would be a home-service medal to members of the Defence Forces of Crown Colonies and Protectorates. The Minister said he did not quite know what defence force in India the honorable member had in mind, but, as far as he was aware, no members of any volunteer force had received war medals unless they had served in some theater of war.

The exchange market has also ruled very firm, the quotation for T. The condition of the market remains unchanged and except for the firmness of exchange and the increase in Homeward Freight Conference rates on Oils, Seeds, Beans and Peas there is nothing of interest to report.

IMPORTS

Piece Goods.—The market is quiet but steady, partly due to the hot weather and partly to the uncertainty prevailing with regard to the political situation in this center.

Yarn.—Nothing of interest to report.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

It has been brought to our notice that certain dealers in Mineral Waters, taking advantage of the present heat wave, and consequent enormous demand for Aerated Waters, are extracting an increased price for our products, amounting in some cases to as much as 100%. This is profiteering of the worst description and our customers should refuse to put up with it. We should feel greatly obliged if they would notify us of any such cases, so that we may be able to deal with the parties concerned.

It is needless to add that we ourselves have not increased our prices one cent.

WEATHER

Rough weather between Chihli and Korea, and to the south of the Loochoos. Very unsteady breezes along our coasts. Overcast and damp weather in the Yangtsze Valley. The typhoon is still threatening the Eastern Sea.

All Unite To Aid Russia

THE tragic cry, "there is a famine in the land," has again come out of Russia.

The great, human heart of the world does not stand on differences of faith and politics, but responds to the cry by sending food and medical supplies. Charity is still the greatest concern of all mankind.

Men and nations quarrel and wage war over boundary lines, but the call of people in need of food obliterates all barriers to intercourse. Compassion for suffering suddenly manifests itself in a national calamity, and nations unite to relieve the people in want, whether friend or foe.

And thus when Gorky warns the world of the pending disaster in Russia nearly all members of the great white family of nations hasten to respond with sympathy and food. Berlin replies that Germany has not enough food to sustain herself, but she is sending five doctors with medical supplies. The excellent pharmaceutical industry is also placed at the disposal of Russia to prevent the spreading of disease.

Little Poland, but last year pillaged and scarred by Bolshevik invasions, believes in feeding her enemies. Trains loaded with grain and other food supplies are leaving Warsaw for Moscow and eastern Russia. The Baltic cities, Riga and Reval, though now independent of the Soviets, are giving relief from their stores which have arrived by sea.

France has never recognised the Bolshevik regime, and has even supported Wrangel against the Moscow government, but when famine stalks through the land France is not the one to refuse food. England, because of her recent treaty, is in a position to furnish immediate and effective help in the distribution of the supplies.

Herbert Hoover, head of the American Relief Commission, has wired the London representative to hurry all available food supplies to Riga. America withholds recognition of the Soviets as a legitimate government, and rejects trade overtures. But the interests of humanity demand that all barriers be swept away in a time of human crisis.

The immediate response of all nations to the famine cry refutes the laments of the misanthrope that the world has become inhuman. To die by famine is to die by inches. A famine in Russia affects the whole human family.

Immediate international relief is a splendid charity which dignifies the name of Humanity. And perhaps through this calamity, and the succor offered by the other races, the way may be opened for Russia to rejoin the Society of Nations with full recognition.

People Are Behind The Chita Government

BY DR. A. E. ZUCKER

(Union Medical College, Peking, who is spending his vacation in Siberia for The China Press)

Chita, July 13.—Last evening Mr. Woo, a member of the Chinese Mission which came up to Chita May 21 under Mr. Hsin, came to call on me at the Central Hotel. He told me that he had come to express his appreciation of the position which THE CHINA PRESS had been taking in regard to the Siberian situation, that he had been intending for many weeks to write to the editor, but that pressure of business had prevented. He believed that in urging fair treatment and recognition for the Far Eastern Republic THE CHINA PRESS was doing a service for all the world, because with foreign aid there would come order and stability, while without it the civil wars would probably continue, and that the world could ill afford to have war and all its evil concomitants continue in this fertile and rich country.

"Mr. Woo, you have been in a very good position for almost two months to observe the workings of this government. What do you think of it?"

"In my opinion the government has done and is doing very good work—in the first place, it has ended the civil war and established peace. The recent defeat of Ungern is another proof that the government is strong and that the people are behind it. Secondly, they have set up a truly democratic government which has nothing communistic about it and which encourages trade. I am in a position to know that, because most of the trade is in the hands of Chinese. There are about 3,000 Chinese in business in Chita, together with small traders, laborers, etc. There is a Chinese population of about 10,000 in this city. One mission came here to look after the interests of these people, and I wish to say for the government that they try their very best to treat my countrymen fairly. And thirdly, there is here a government that really governs, they are doing a lot of constructive work in many departments. But they are very poor and they need foreign aid to tide them over."

"Why doesn't your government recognise the Far Eastern Republic?"

IN FAVOR OF RECOGNITION

"All of the members of our mission favor recognition very strongly, but, of course, we cannot make a treaty with them. We could settle our difficulties much more easily if this country had regular intercourse with foreign nations."

"Of what sort are your difficulties?"

"Because this country is so very poor and very badly in need of money, and moreover practically in a state of war, they passed a law that all gold coin would have to be handed to the government in exchange for paper money before February 24 of this year, otherwise the exchange would be made by force. Our consul protested against applying this measure to the Chinese merchants, because they had bought the goods which they had imported with gold and they would lose all if they were now forced to accept paper. The government agreed to exempt the Chinese merchants, but when on February 24 a raid was made by the militia to seize gold about one hundred Chinese merchants were forced to give up their coin. This was a lawless action on the part of the particular members of the militia, especially aggravating since in about forty cases they refused to give receipts for what they took and some of the receipts are for smaller amounts than the merchants claim were taken from them. The government has returned the money to those who have receipts, and the other cases are now being investigated. But since the constitution has been accepted and put into execution nothing of the sort has happened. There have been robberies, of course, and the government does its best to apprehend the criminals and in some cases the merchants have been reimbursed for the amount they have lost. Petty officials, of course, sometimes do illegal things, but as Dr. Abbott said to me one time, those things must be expected after what has happened in this country recently."

"In your conversations with Dr. Abbott did you get the impression that he was going to give a favorable or unfavorable report to the Washington government?"

ABBOTT WELL PLEASED

"Why, I should say, a very favorable one. He was well pleased with what he saw here and I remember distinctly that one time he said to me: 'What better form of government could these people have adopted.' Which to my mind shows that he approved highly of their Constitution."

Dr. Abbott observed to me at one time that in his opinion the government of the Far Eastern Republic was trying to carry out nothing more radical than did our American forefathers in 1785. In fact, the American Constitution has had great influence on that of the Far Eastern Republic. Other influences come from the Australian and New Zealand constitutions, but there is no soviet organisation whatever.

The most interesting feature of this long document—twenty-three typewritten pages—is the attempt to apply the commission form of government which has been adopted in many American cities to a nation. The National Assembly which is elected by the people in its turn elects seven men who form "the government" and in whom the executive power is vested. They are, so to speak, the seven presidents. They appoint the various ministers, who might be called hired experts in charge of their departments. The ministers are responsible to the National Assembly and must resign if the National Assembly withdraws its confidence in the Council of Ministers. The "government" has the right to dismiss any of the ministers at any time and to appoint others in their places. Other powers usually in the hands of the president of a republic are the prerogatives of "the government," such as the appointment of representatives of the republic to foreign countries, the convocation of the assembly for special sessions, the granting of amnesty, and so forth. To a certain extent they also pass on the constitutionality of laws passed by the assembly and orders issued by the council of ministers; they can stop the execution of these laws and orders if they consider them contrary to the constitution, but in case of the Assembly it is really only the power of veto, for if the Assembly passes the law once more with a two-thirds majority it stands as law. The supreme power in every case rests with the Assembly and the "government" as well as the ministers are responsible to it.

1,000 VOTES INITIATIVE

The legislative power, of course, rests with the National Assembly. Legislative initiative may come from members of the assembly, from a resolution signed by 1,000 citizens, from the council of ministers in corpore, or from the government. During the time when the assembly is not sitting the "government" has the right to promulgate provisional laws which, however, must be submitted to the assembly immediately upon the renewal of the sessions.

The provincial governments of the five provinces included in the territory of the Far Eastern Republic are modelled closely upon the national government with a provincal assembly which elects, also for two years, a provincial "government" or administration. In like manner, countries and villages have their assemblies who elect committees as administrative officers to carry out the local laws. National laws are enforced by officers or the "government," "federal officials" we should say in the United States, who have the title of "emissars."

The judiciary is quite independent of all other branches of the government. All judges are elected by popular vote. The courts are divided into two classes, lower courts and courts of appeal. The lower courts consist of three kinds: the first where simple cases are judged by one judge alone, in the manner of a justice of peace; the second kind before which criminal cases are judged by a judge and two citizens in the nature of jurymen; and the third for very important cases, which are judged by one judge and six citizens. These citizens, "people's judges" or jurymen are selected by lot from a list of capable citizens, similar to our juries. However, the decision is given according to a majority vote in which the vote of the citizens counts just as heavily as that of the judge. In the higher court only elected judges sit. There is no second court of appeal.

LOCAL SELF CONTROL

Since the population of the Far Eastern Republic is far from homogeneous an "autonomous Mongol-Buriat district" is established which submits to the laws of the republic but enjoys at the same time complete self-administration locally. All national minorities have autonomy in their national and educational affairs, that is to say, the national government through the ministry of education supplies funds for schools in which Ukranian, Yiddish, Tartar, Korean, and other languages may be taught. Complete religious freedom is also granted and the teaching of religion in the schools is prohibited. However the churches are free to have as many Sunday schools as they wish. There is no interference with religion; it is considered a private matter.

This constitution has also taken a leaf out of the book of the single-taxers but goes far beyond them. It abolishes private ownership of land. Anyone who is actually using land retains possession of it by leasing it from the government and the only way in which it can be taken from him is by right of eminent domain with due compensation. The purpose of the nationalisation of the land is to prevent speculation and unearned increment. Local land organs distribute agricultural land among peasants who are actually going to work it, and it is left to the people to decide whether the land is to be worked individually or in groups. Private ownership is preserved, all individuals and companies are guaranteed the inviolability of their property; leases of land, however, do not hold for longer than 36 years. The state assists farmers in organising agriculture on a collective basis. That is to say, the "co-operative societies" of the peasants which under the old regime were looked upon with little favor are now pushed forward by government assistance.

The principle state revenue is derived from a progressive income tax, property tax, tax on title-deeds, inheritance tax, tax on surplus values, and temporarily from indirect taxes. The state budget is submitted to the national assembly for approval two months before the time for which the budget is drawn up. No expenditure may be made without the approval of the national assembly. Likewise must all loans be sanctioned by the assembly.

UNIVERSAL SERVICE

The defense of the republic is the army of the people raised by universal military service of all male citizens between the ages of 18 and 45 years. The highest directing organ of the army is the "government," just as in the United States the president is commander-in-chief of the army. All the rights of citizenship are guaranteed to the soldiers during

MARY EVANGELINE BROWN

A pretty and dainty young damsel went out
At six in the evening, or just thereabout;
She sought a quiet lane that wound
close by the town.
All her friends called her Mary
Evangeline Brown.
A handsome young fellow—peculiar to say—
Was taking a stroll just the very same way;
And he felt his heart thrill as it
jumped up and down,
Like the heart of Miss Mary
Evangeline Brown.

Mary Evangeline twinkled;
Her dimples all prettily crinkled,
She knew he was near,
And he, too, knew—oh dear!
This love will make anyone wrinkled.
But poor Mister Green tried his feelings to drown,
And so did Miss Mary Evange-
line Brown.

They met and bowed coldly, though both were afire,
Then, afraid he'd offended, he thought he'd retire;
But he turned back and smiled,
turning red as her gown,
And so did Miss Mary Evangeline
Brown.
His hands felt too big, and he'd too many feet;
It's often the way when your true
love you meet.
Then he knocked off his hat, his confusion to crown—
And she laughed, wicked Mary
Evangeline Brown!

Mary Evangeline waited
Until his confusion abated,
Then said: "Mister Green,
May I ask what you mean,
For to meet you I always seem fated?"
Then Green became pink, grabbed her hand and bent down,
But she dodged him, did Mary
Evangeline Brown.

Green felt that the moment for action had come,
And his eyes spoke whole chapters
e'en when he was dumb;
While sweet Mary read them with thrills of delight:
(She felt she could read them all day and all night).
He cried: "Although Brown, dear,
be mine and turn Green!
Mrs. Green all in white would look fit for a queen."
Then he rumpled her hair as he kissed her, the clown!
But she liked it, did Mary Evange-
line Brown.

Bats in the moonlight were flying,
Yet still heart to heart they were sighing.
That's five years ago,
And they're married, you know,
Yet Green vows his love is undying.
But he with a sweet little maid's often seen,
Just the image of Mary Evangeline Green.

"AND IT CAME TO PASS"

A preacher in a London church preached recently on "Purified by Fire," and a few days later the sanctuary was burnt down.

Texts sometimes prove very appropriate, though they are not often attended by such grim results. We have, for instance, the story of the preacher who, in order to conceal his short stature, stood in the pulpit on a pile of hassocks.

He gave out his text, "A little while and ye shall see me; a little while and ye shall not see me," when to the mirth of the congregation his support collapsed, and he disappeared from view.

A service in a country church received a humorous punctuation. The text was "Wilt thou give him a stone?" and no sooner had the words left the preacher's mouth than a large pebble, thrown by a mischievous youngster outside, crashed through a window and landed before him.

"She is not dead but sleepeth," proclaimed another pastor, when the loud snores of a woman occupying a prominent pew caused a titter throughout the church. A Scottish divine chose as his text the one word "Hail," but his sermon lost much of its seriousness owing to the comic aptness of the elements, a severe hailstorm raging throughout the service.

An American clergyman preached a Christmas sermon on "And looking up they saw a star." Rather mystified at a number of chuckles which greeted his text, he requested an explanation later from one of his deacons.

"Well," said the latter, with a smile, "Miss X., the film star, is sitting in the front of the gallery. Your words rather fitted in, didn't they?"

"But the eyes of the wicked shall fail," was the index to a sermon prepared by a certain curate. Unfortunately he had relied on reading his sermon when his glasses slipped from his nose and broke upon the floor.

And then he wondered why everybody laughed!

the period of their service. The state likewise supports the families of soldiers and pays pensions to those who have been disabled in the service.

Among the rights guaranteed to citizens is complete equality before the law. "All class distinctions, class privileges, and all civil and military ranks and titles are annulled." Liberty of conscience is proclaimed, a citizen may have any or no religion at all. It is provided especially that in documents the religious affiliation of a citizen should not be indicated. The right of free speech, press, and assembly are guaranteed, as well as the right of workmen to strike. "All citizens' their homes, and their correspondence are inviolable." Corporal as well as capital punishment are forever abolished.

While many of the provisions in this constitution, especially those providing the working man with a month's vacation every year and those introducing universal compulsory education are not yet carried out completely, but must be said to be on paper rather than existing in fact, yet in its most essential points the constitution is being carried out. Copies of the constitution printed in the form of a little pamphlet have been distributed broadcast, and every citizen can refer to his coup in case of excesses of petty officials who might be over-stepping their authority. Moreover, it will take the Russian, both the official and the citizen, some years to get used to a democratic constitution; the former, especially in these days of civil war is inclined to forget the constitution and the latter does not realise the necessity of voting. But taken all in all, it is an immense step in advance of any government that has existed in Russia before, and the men elected into the assembly and the "government" are working hard to translate the new constitution into fact.

in
"A Woman of Impuls"
The Peril of being Beautiful!
It Wasn't that she Didn't Love Her Husband!
Lina Cavalieri plays the part in this great picture of a daughter of Eve whose beauty was far too great for the safety of her own heart or the men's she encountered.
It wasn't that she did not love her husband, but simply that she drew other men to her almost unconsciously as the candle-flame does the poor doomed moth. And some of the moths were mighty dangerous.
"A Woman of Impulse" will stir you deeply by its likeness to the problems of Love as you know them.
